
FROM HERE TO THERE. The black diagonal of Route One bisects this part of Central New Jersey. A fluid network of van pool routes, shuttle buses and other kinds of "paratransit" is being proposed by the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council to serve the area's changing transportation needs.

'Paratransit'

MSM has analyzed the effect on traffic of shuttles and ride-sharing. A ten percent reduction is "achieveable", Mr. Hamill reports, over the whole geographic area. At key intersections, especially along the Route One corridor, the reduction could be 30 to 40 percent.

MSM also believes that a shuttle could support itself financially with fewer than 500 riders. And once started, it would pick up momentum and could expand and grow.

Local Board Members. MSM board members who sit on the Transportation Committee are Fred Proctor, chairman, and director of administrative services at ETS; Robert Anderson of Titusville; John P. Moran, president of Bowers Development; Albert J. Hanson, regional vice-president of McGraw-Hill Inc.; A.C. Reeves Hicks, Princeton lawyer; Allen I. Rowe, associate director for administration and finance of the Institute for Advanced Study and Carol Beske, regional marketing director of Fellows, Read and Associates, Inc.

Non-board members on the committee are Eugene McPartland of Princeton University; William Starr Jr.; William F. King III, project manager for Carnegie Center; James Suzman of the state Department of Housing and Development; T. Joseph Semrod, president of United Jersey Banks.

"The operating deficit of the Dinky is over $150,000 a year. How can that subsidy best serve the region's needs?"

Thomas Bates of Belle Mead; Richard K. Brail of the Rutgers Department of Urban Planning and Policy; Jerome Kurshan of RCA; Robert J. Wolfe, general manager of Forrestal; Barbara Sigmund, former Mercer County Freeholder and Louis F. DeLauro, director of office services for ETS.

"We hope," smiles Mr. Hamill, "that it will only be a year before the first bus runs."

Ryan New Captain

Junior guard Bill Ryan has been named captain of Princeton University's 1983-84 basketball team. Chosen by his teammates, Ryan replaces this year's senior co-captains Gary Knapp and Craig Robinson.

The 6-3 point guard from Rockaway, N.Y., has been Princeton's floor leader for the past three seasons. This year he led the Tigers in assists (88), free throw percentage (.857) and minutes played (1,106), and was second in steals with 39. Ryan averaged 4.8 points per game.

Ryan's ball handling and passing sparked the Orange and Black to a 12-2 league record for Princeton's second Ivy championship in three years and a berth in the NCAA post-season tournament. The Tigers finished 20-9 overall and won 11 straight games before falling to Boston College, 51-42, in the second round of the Western Regionals at Corvallis, Ore.

"Billy has been running the team for three years," said coach Pete Carril. "He's been on championship teams two out of his three seasons and we expect him to lead us again next year."

The series, run over distances of 5, 10 and 25 miles, is held every Sunday morning through the end of June. The next race of 10 miles will be held Sunday at Allentown.

SATURDAY IS START

Tougher Rent Registration Ordinance to Be Introduced By Council This Wednesday

A stiffened Rent Registration ordinance is scheduled for introduction by Borough Council at this Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting in Borough Hall. Stiffer, but with the possibility of something Council member Richard Woodbridge called "gumming."

"Gumming"? That's jawboning without any teeth.

Borough rent ordinances have been limping along with a life span of a year or two, sometimes less. The present Rent Registration ordinance expires April 30. The new ordinance has a three-year life span. It also has a reprisals clause.

If the Rent Registration board of five citizens finds that a landlord has levied a rent increase against a tenant in retaliation, the board will have the power to refuse the increase. Also, the board will retain its power to refuse an increase if inspection of the premises shows up any violations of health ordinances.

After more than an hour of discussion at last Thursday's work session — although Council president Barbara Hill had sternly set a one-hour limit to discussion — Council turned its thoughts over to attorney Edwin Schmierer and told him to draft the ordinance.

Robert McChesney, starting things off by urging that "we fish or cut bait," proposed that Council reinstate rent control, tied to some kind of indexing. The ordinance would follow the recommendations of a 1981 citizens committee which had studied rent problems and advised rent control.

The vote on Mr. McChesney's suggestion was 3-3. He was joined by Peter Bearse and Joseph Blanc. Mayor Robert W. Cawley broke the tie with a "No" and defeated the rent-control proposal.

OK then, Mr. McChesney continued, let's follow the advice of a landlord, Leonard LaPlaca, who had suggested a jawboning provision in the ordinance.

"The Rent Registration board could pick the highest rent increases, call the landlord in and try to talk him out of it, Mr. McChesney explained. "Mr. LaPlaca felt this would encourage landlords not to try for exorbitant increases."

Karen Woodbridge — Borough

Woodbridge, Tomalin, McGee Elected, Budget Passes

Michael Tomalin, Rosemary McGee and Karen Woodbridge were elected to the school board and both parts of the new budget passed easily in Tuesday's annual school elections. Township voters approved the budget by more than three to one; in the Borough, it was more than two to one.

Turnout, tradltionally low in school elections, was 9 percent in the Borough and 8.2 percent in the Township. Last year, when Princeton was almost buried under an April snowstorm, only 4.3 percent of the voters turned out.

Michael Mahoney was also elected to the board as a Borough representative, but he was unopposed.

Mr. Tomalin led in the Township with 536 votes. Mrs. McGee had 521 and Sharon Muzyk, 203. Both Mr. Tomalin and Mrs. McGee were running for a second term.

It was Mr. Tomalin's change of vote that shifted the 5-4 balance on the board and brought about the vote to close Littlebrook, and many thought voters would turn against him. He was afraid of that himself, he said after the returns were in on Tuesday.

"Yes, I did think my actions would have an impact. It didn't affect the way I campaigned, but it did mean I campaigned as hard as I could. People didn't tell me they wouldn't vote for me, but some said that although they were mad at me, they'd vote for me anyway.

"But you never know what people will do when they get in the booth!"

Mr. Tomalin said many voters, as he campaigned, spoke of the elementary schools as a "weak link," and he said the board must address this.

The Littlebrook districts, which are Township general election Districts 10 and 14, approved both current expense and capital budgets. Last month, after the board had voted to close Littlebrook School, the school's PTO stated that it would not actively support the budget.

In the final tally, District 10 did cast more "no" votes against both sections of the budget than any other district, but more people voted there than in any other district, so the significance of the "no" counts is considerably diluted.

In District Ten, 89 voted for the current expense budget and 38 against it; 80 for the capital budget and 44 against it. In comparison, in the next-largest district — District Nine, in the Riverside area — the tally was 72 in favor and 13 opposed to the current expense budget, and 71 to 15 for the capital budget.

The budget vote:

Borough, current expense: 333 "yes," 161 "no."

Borough, capital outlay: 326 "yes," 160 "no."

Township, current expense: 521 "yes," 158 "no."

Township, capital outlay: 500 "yes," 176 "no."

Home Link Begins Cable TV Construction; Completion Is Expected by End of Summer

Aerial construction — hanging the first lines — began Monday morning for the Home Link cable television system that will serve Borough and Township.

Bill Heisel, general manager for Home Link, said the company hopes to finish the building of its 125 miles of cable by the end of summer. For the first month, the rate will be five miles a week; after that, 25 miles a week until it's all done. The contractor is Communications Construction Group from Pennsylvania. Borough and Township householders can recognize the crew by a uniform top and ID badge, and white trucks.

Sales promotions will begin around August, Mr. Heisel said. But first, Home Link must meet proof-of-performance specifications set by the firm's own engineering department and the CCG staff.

Things began on Westcott, at the intersection with Library Place. Home Link had wanted to begin on North Harrison, near Bunn Drive, but there were performance bond complications in the Township, so ground-breaking — or air-breaking — began in the Borough instead, as CCG crew zipped to the top of a utility pole and began work.

Approval by Township Committee is important, Mr. Heisel explained, because Home Link's main run will

THE FIRST REEL: Cable television for Princeton — the first visible, public step toward cable was taken at 9 sharp Monday morning, when crews from Communications Construction Group began work at Library Place and Westcott Road. be down North Harrison. "But Westcott is a good straight street," he said, adding that work was expected to start in the Township the next day.

Borough and Township together have been divided into quadrants, and construction will go according to that plan. Home Link hopes to set up office space shortly in Princeton Professional Park.

Rent Registration

"It would be a sham," retorted Council member Richard Macgill. "The board would have no power. What is jawboning, if there are no teeth?"

"Gumming," Mr. Woodbridge replied. He did suggest, however, that Council try it. "If jawboning works," he remarked, "it would take the pressure off the town for more Draconian measures."

"Nationally, jawboning has been an abject failure," Mr. Macgill declared. "Hard-boiled landlords won't care, and the others won't be involved, anyway."

"I'm convinced landlords might think of their wider community responsibility," Mr. McChesney mused. Earlier in the year, he had charged that many Princeton landlords are guilty of rent-gouging.

In the end, Council decided not to require landlords to come in and submit to "gumming." But those whose rent increases are regarded as too high, will be "contacted."

TWO TOWNSHIPS AGREE On Road Maintenance. Princeton Township and Hopewell Township have amicably agreed to a plan for taking care of the part of Province Line Road that forms the boundary between the two municipalities.

As outlined in a resolution adopted by Township Committee last Monday night, the plan splits the costs of maintaining the road according to the season. From September through March, Princeton Township will be responsible, and that means snowplowing and sanding when there are icy conditions. Hopewell Township will take over from April through September and cut the grass and fill the pot holes.

The plan suits each municipality just fine, Mayor Winthrop Pike says, because it uses the machinery and manpower of each township to the best advantage. "We have to go out there anyway with our snowplows to plow the rest of Province Line," he comments.

In other business, Committee introduced two "housekeeping" ordinances that will have a public hearing on Monday, May 2. It postponed for a week a decision on giving back to the Board of Education space under the big meeting room in the Valley Road Building that it has not used and will not need. The Township leases space from the school board for $1 a year, but shares the costs of operating the building with the school board. Acting Administrator Douglas Bacher says that renegotiating the lease to exclude that space will save the Township $10,766 a year.

Committeeman William Cherry requested postponement of the decision to give Township Welfare Director Dorothy Kruger time to asses the suitability of the space for the Food Coop, which is currently in the basement of the Art People Place on Witherspoon Street.

Committee spent its work session pondering such matters as child fingerprinting in the Township (members seemed not to favor it) and a proposed ordinance regulating the installation of alarm systems (the Police Department has been plagued with false alarms in systems tied into headquarters and wants to get out of the alarm business nd yet be able to respond quickly to true alarms).

STOUFFER, SEMINARY At EDRC. A new subdivision and a new restaurant are on the agenda for the Environmental Design Review Committee when it meets this Wednesday at 7:30 in the Valley Road Building.

Princeton Theological Seminary plans 23 houses and 12 townhouses for faculty on Mt. Lucas Road. The property, known as the Habada tract from its late owner, adjoins present Seminary property where there are also Seminary faculty homes.

The Stouffer Corporation, which plans to open a Stouffer Cheese Cellar Restaurant in the rear of the One Palmer Square Building, will show how it plans to convert office space to restaurant use.

Another new Collins Development tenant, Laura Ashley, Inc., will also present plans for converting basement storage at 46 Nassau to office use.

WATER, BUT NO SHADE Awning in Dispute. There will be a new fountain in front of One Palmer Square, but whether there will be a new overhang around the building is still a question.

The Planning Board labored and discussed and pondered last Tuesday as Collins explained its revised plans for the forecourt of One Palmer Square. In the end, the awning still folded, the board suggested Collins go back and think it over, and bring in new ideas on Thursday, April 21. That's the evening Collins is expected with its site plans for the addition to the Nassau Inn.

Originally, Collins planned to replace the present overhang with a shaded glass canopy. Revised plans show a canvas awning. But Collins didn't say what color or pattern the awning would have.

It wasn't color so much as shelter that worried the board. Members want to make sure there is a permanent, all-weather canopy to shelter people waiting for the bus. How, for example, would an awning behave in a heavy snowstorm?

Richard Henkel, of the board, suggested an awning for the south side of the building, where shops will be, and a rigid canopy on the west side, for shelter. Collins objected to this. The board wasn't enthusiastic, either, and it was voted down.

McChesney Studying Census Figures

Thinking about rent leads to thinking about people and how many there are, and Borough Council Robert McChesney, as he pondered landlords and tenants, began to dig out Borough census figures. (Although the census was taken three years ago, figures are just now emerging from the calculators. For example, Mr. McChesney expects that Borough income figures will be available "soon.")

He finds that the Borough's non-student population dropped by nine percent — from 7,846 to 7,192 in the ten years between censuses. The total 1980 population of the Borough is 12,035, but that includes 4,843 in "group quarters" — that is, students.

The number of housing units has increased from 3,274 to 3,357 — fewer people in each unit, representing split families and smaller families, generally.

In 1980, there were 1,709 families in the Borough, and 294 of them were headed by a female.

One in every five residents of the Borough is 62 years old or older. That's 21 or 22 percent. Mr. McChesney says that in comparable towns, the figure is 10 to 11 percent.

Figures show that the Borough's black population declined by 15 percent in ten years: from 1,234 to 1,044. In 1970, there were 386 housing units owned or rented by blacks; in 1980, that figure had dropped to 285 — a decline of 26 percent in black-occupied housing units. The black population figure includes students at Princeton University.

Mr. McChesney found that the vacancy rate in rentals has gone from 2.1 to 5.4 percent in the years between '70 and '80, which means 106 vacant rental units, and adds, "I have trouble believing this."

Incidentally, Mr. McChesney obtained his data from the economics section of the University's Firestone Library. Firestone is now closed to townspeople except those who buy a special permit. He does not need a special permit: his wife works for the University.

HIGH WATER: Steady and often heavy rain last Friday and Sunday sent Stony Brook over its banks in several places including this area along Quakerbridge Road, which was closed to traffic as usual. Sun will be around to dry out the area the next couple of days, with next chance of showers on Friday. (Lorelei Fugle photo)

The new fountain will be dish-shaped, like the present one, and flush with the plaza pavement. It will be designed so that in winter, when water has been turned off, pedestrians can walk through it in a short-cut across the forecourt.

The shape is irregular. In the center are several upright rectangular granite pylons, of varying height. The water will play from these.

At one side, between the fountain and the corner where the two wings of the building meet, plans show a planting of half a dozen trees and shrubs, with a mulch of oak chipping.

SIX WET WEEKS

And Fountain Sewers. It has rained at least part of the time the last six week-ends. The confirmation of what you had suspected, came this week from Science Associates.

Last week-end, 1.89 inches fell over Saturday and Sunday. At least you didn't have to rake the lawn for Clean-up Week. And at least we didn't have the two inches in a day, reported in northern New Jersey and New York City.

Quaker Bridge Road was not only closed for flooding — a fairly standard occurrance — it was partially washed out. Township Engineer Robert Kiser reports that a six-foot square of road surface simply washed away, because the water came so fast. A crew went out early Monday morning and did the repair work.

Valley Road sewer trunk line fountains were spewing forth again over the week-end, but Mr. Kiser reports no phone calls about Harry's Brook from residents who live near that sometimes rambunctious stream.

There was an overflow at Linden and Hawthorne, but the source of the blockage was traced and removed.

"Yes, overflows from the sewers do continue, and it's disappointing," acknowledges George Olexa, of the Sewer Operating Committee, "but it's these extraordinary rains that do it."

The SOC is still at work repairing infiltration and inflow in Princeton's ancient sewers and this "I-and-I" work is expected to be completed by 1985.

"When all the work is finished, we'll still have problems," Mr. Olexa warns. He says nobody knows how many basement drains, patio drains, roof leaders are connected to the sanitary sewer system — and infiltrate it unduly during heavy rains.

Also, I-and-I work is based on a 1976 report by the late Arthur Brokaw. Deterioration doesn't stop just because a report has been completed, Mr. Olexa points out. And by 1985, the sewers will be even older.

"A lot of water will have gone over the dam by 1985."

Mr. Olexa points, optimistically, to repair work like that done on the Dempsey Avenue sewer: "that pipe was one-quarter full of ground water, seeping in. By the time we were finished, there was only a trickle."

VOLKSWAGEN VS. DINKY

No...It Was A Standoff. A 1978 Volkswagen driven by a Princeton University student collided with the "Dinky" shuttle train Saturday night, bringing minor injuries to the driver and his passenger.

The Volkswagen was demolished but the Dinky was also knocked out of commission by an electricl failure and had to be towed away by N.J. Department of Transportation workers.

Township police charged the driver Richard S. Rush 3d, 21, of 51 Little Hall, with drunken driving and with driving around a flashing railway gate. He was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the face. His passenger, 20-year old John C. Stauffer of the same Little Hall address, was treated at the Medical Center for head cuts.

The incident occurred around 7 p.m. when Rush drove around the flashing crossarm at Faculty Road and struck the Dinky on the side some 20 feet from the front of the engine which was traveling to Princeton from Princeton Junction. Ptl. Robert Nielsen investigated after police were called at 7:12.

Car Skids on Curve. A Rockaway driver was issued a summons for careless driving last week after his car skidded while rounding a curve on State Road and went out of control 50 feet south of Cherry Valley Road.

The driver, Fred A. Schiller Jr., 63, told Ptl. David Funk that his wheels locked when he applied his brakes causing him to skid. His Lincoln left 160 feet of skid marks before striking a utility pole.

Mr. Schiller was treated at the hospital for contusions and abrasions of the head which he sustained following the 6:44 a.m. mishap. In addition to careless driving, he was also charged as an unlicensed driver.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Gun Possession. A Monmouth Junction man and a Humbert Street resident have been charged by Borough police with possession of a handgun and both are scheduled to appear in Borough Court next Wednesday.

FOR FUN, FOR KIDS: The troupe of strolling players — strolling all the way from New Brunswick — known as The Shoestring Players, will perform for children three times this Saturday in the theatre of Princeton Inn College (Alexander Street, opposite the University Place intersection). Actors are students in the Rutgers-Douglass department of theatre arts.

The incident began at 1:25 Monday morning when Ptl. Donald Dawson and Ptl. Ralph Terracciano observed a Ford Bronco traveling west on Nassau Street in an erratic manner near Harrison Street. The officer stopped the car near Moore Street.

When the driver, 27-year old Frank Paone of Monmouth Junction failed several sobriety tests at the scene he was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol. At the same time, Ptl. Terracciano flashed a flashlight in the car and observed a passenger attempt to place a small pistol in the rear pocket of her jeans. The officers confiscated a loaded, single shot, Derrigner type .22 caliber pistol and arrested Katharine Detwiler, 27, of Humbert Street.

During a search of Paone at police headquarters, police uncovered a small plastic bag in his possession containing a controlled dangerous substance. Capt. John J. Bellow reported that the substance, which has been sent to a police lab for analysis, appears to be cocaine.

Panone was charged with possession of CDS and a handgun and six motor vehicle violatons: drunk driving, refusal to take a Breathalyzer test, no license in possession, improper display of license plates, use of fictitious plates and unregistered car.

Detwiler was released in $2,000 bail on the handgun charge. A bail of $3,400 was placed on Paone for the drug and other charges and $250 for the drunk driving charge. He was later released in bail, pending his appearance in court.

NEW SERGEANT NAMED

To Township Police Department. Det. Frank Boccanfuso of Clearview Avenue, who joined the Township police department in June, 1961, has been named a sergeant to replace Sgt. Michael Kopliner who retired last May. His promotion becomes effective on Friday.

Sgt. Boccanfuso will be in charge of a patrol when he assumes his new rank. For the past 12 years he had served in the detective bureau. His promotion was based on the result of a written examination and an evaluation by superior officers. Fifteen patrolmen took the test.

Chief Anthony Pinelli said that a new captain, a new lieutenant and another sergeant will be named in the near future. The latter will be selected from among the 15 who took the test with Sgt. Boccanfuso.

Members of the department had complained to Township officials earlier this year about what they felt was an undue long time in appointing a replacement for Sgt. Kopliner.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN

From Vandeventer Home. Pieces of jewelry, believed to exceed $5,000 in value by the victim, were stolen last week from a Vandeventer Avenue home.

The owner told police that when she entered her second floor guest room at 6:50 Friday night she noticed signs of tampering. When she glanced in a walk through closet she saw a dresser drawer open and a jewelry box upset. When a second glance revealed another dresser drawer open and an opened jewelry pouch, the victim called police.

The house, police said, was entered by forcing a side door and the upstairs bedrooms were entered. The victim told Sgt. Thomas Procaccino that the house had been vacant between 1:50 and 6:50 p.m. Police are still waiting for a report of what was taken, but they added that the victim told them she feels the loss will exceed $5,000.

A Quarry Street resident suffered a sizeable loss last week when $3,000 was stolen from his car while it was parked overnight in a municipal lot off Maclean Street.

No questions asked

Township police would like its stolen street signs back with no questions asked.

A lot of the signs are missing, said Chief Pinelli this week, from locations all over the Township. It's a great expense to keep replacing the signs, he said, and many have not been replaced. "It's frustrating to visitors to try to locate a street in an area where signs have been removed."

Chief Pinelli said that he is appealing to parents and neighbors. If they should see any or have any in their possession or know where a stolen sign is to turn them into to police headquarters.

"There will be no prosecution," chief Pinelli promised. "All we're interested in is getting our signs back."

He told police that someone shattered the right rear window of his car and removed an unmarked, black bag contained $3,000 from under the front seat. Also taken were a $50 cassette player and 15 cassette tapes worth $100.

According to police, the victim told them he had purchased some property in Pennsylvania and needed the money to complete the transaction. He had left the money in the car when he realized he wouldn't be able to get to the bank.

More Jewlery Taken. Township police report the theft last week of approximately $2,500 in jewelry from an Edgerstoune Road home. Rings, pins and other items were taken between 9:05 Friday morning and 12:49 in the afternoon.

An intruder broke a window in the rear of the home, police said, and then reached in to unlock it and enter the house. Ptl. Robert Buchanan investigated.

Three stores in the Princeton Shopping Center were broken into last week.

Police report that in each instance, a front door window was smashed to get inside. The entries were discovered by police at 5:55 Sunday morning.

A cash tray was removed from a cash register and coins from three video machines at the Pizza Star restaurant, and a small amount of cash used to make change was stolen from the Minute Press. Desks were rifled at the Omni Travel agency but police said it is not known if anything was taken. Sgt. Robert Heacock, Ptl. John Seeley and Ptl. Renn Kaminski investigated.

INVITATION TO THEFT

Empty Car, Running Motor. Two drivers in Princeton last week learned it is an invitation to theft to leave your car unoccupied with the motor running.

A Princeton Junction resident was only absent from her car for two minutes when she left it parked in a prohibited area with the motor running to run into Verbeyst Cleaners on Tulane Street to pick up her clothes.

When she returned her pocketbook was missing. Inside was one wallet containing $75 and another wallet containing $8. The victim also lost a check book and her house keys.

Not as fortunate was an Public Service employee: he had his car stolen.

Around 4:30 Monday afternoon, the employee, police said, stopped and parked his 1979 Plymouth on Nassau Street near Chestnut, while he checked on a job that a Public Service crew was working on in a hole in the area. He left the car's motor running and its 4-way flasher lights on.

The next moment, the Public Service supervisor looked up, police said, and saw his car going down Nassau Street. Some PS employees attempted to follow the stolen car in a company truck but couldn't keep up because of traffic. As the stolen car headed south on 206 toward Lawrence Township, police here radioed Lawrence police.

The car was stopped in Lawrence Township and the driver rturned to Borough police. He was identified as John McGlyn of Villanova, Pa. McGlyn was detained in Borough jail for processing.

SUMMER IN GERMANY: Princeton High School sophomore Marion Katz, left, received a perfect score on her National German Examination and has won an all-expense paid study trip to Germany this summer. She will live with a German family, attend school and travel throughout the country. Her award is from the West German government and the American Association of Teachers of German. She is shown with her German teacher, Dr. Victoria Ellis. (Jon Felsher Photo)

THEFT REPORT

$1,200 Bike Is Stolen. A Masi 60 CM track racing bicycle, valued at $1,200, was stolen Thursday afternoon from the sidewalk in front of Kopps Cycle Shop, 43 Witherspoon Street.

Police said that the bike was not locked. They identified the owner as a resident of Magie Apartments of Faculty Road and a part-time employee of Kopps.

A Princeton University student had her wallet stolen from her pocketbook last week while it was hanging near a coat room in the Elm Club on Prospect Avenue. Her brown Anne Klein wallet was valued at $15 and contained $60, a $20 traveler's check and credit cards. The theft took place between 9:15 and 9:50 Thursday morning.

A Harrison Street resident reported the theft of a steel tennis racket, tennis bag and tennis clothing with a combined value of $206.50 from her car last week. She told police that the car had been parked in several locations around town before she noticed the theft. There were no signs of forced entry.

Donation Box Stolen. A wooden coin box, painted to resemble a building, was stolen last week from a counter at the Wawa Market on lower University Place. The manager, Alex Versfeld, told police that the box contained donations for the Eden Institute, an agency for autistic children, and held about $10 in change when it was noticed missing around 2:30 Thursday morning.

The 16 x 12 x 2-inch box was found later the same day in the vicinity of University Place and College Road. There was still about $2 inside, police said.

REPELLENT AVAILABLE

To Curb Marauding Deer. Not only has the Township's swollen deer herd–protected by an anti-firearm ordinance–raised hob with motorists, it has gardeners and flower raisers in the community gnashing their teeth. Help for the latter anyway is available--and its free.

Township Chief Anthony Pinelli reported that two repellents are avaiable from the state's Fish and Game Agency located in Clinton. Both liquid, one is for bushes and the second for edible fruits and vegatables.

To get the repellent sprays, however, one must go to Clinton where they are available in limited quantity. The Fish and Game telephone number in Clinton is 201-735-8793.

Chief Pinelli commented that police have received at least three complaints from residents complaining about deer eating shrubbery and gardens.

USTORE IS SITE

Of Bomb Scare. If spring is here can bomb threats be far behind?

Someone called the University Store Tuesday morning and reported a bomb had been placed inside the store. An employee of the store called police at 11:03 to report the threat.

Police and store officials searched the evacuated building but found no bomb. At 11:23 the store called police again to report that the store was back in operation.

DUMBELLS STOLEN

Four Juveniles Charged. Four Princeton juveniles, three aged 14 and one 13-year old have been charged with the theft Saturday afternoon of two dumbells from Dillon Gym on the Princeton University campus.

Fresh Flowers Again

The Spring French Market sponsored by the Garden Club of Princeton will resume this week.

Every Friday, from 8:30 until 11:30 a.m., through June 17, Garden Club members will be selling spring garden flowers, flowering branches and small flower arrangements in the mini-park opposite TOWN TOPICS, Nassau and Mercer Streets.

Proceeds from these markets are used in the club's local conservation and education activities. These include the ongoing donation of gardening and horticulture books to the Public Library and the Arbor Day tree-planting program undertaken with area schools.

The four were allegedly observed by a proctor carrying two York dumbells, one 15 pounds, the second 25 pounds, from the gym. They were taken to police headquarters, turned over to the Borough juvenile officer Det. William Clark for processing and later released to their parents.

Tresspassers Charged. Four residents from outside the Princeton area were arrested late Monday night and charged with trespassing at the Princeton Inn Annex.

Arrested inside the annex around 11:30 were Stephen Blair, 20, and Kimberly Blair, 20, both of Ocala, Fla.; Terry Rodriguez, 21, of Centerreach, N.Y. and Benard Edwards, 20, of East Orange. Police said that the four had been previously warned not to trespass at the Annex. After each was issued a summons, all were released on their own recognizance.

SUMMONS IS THE RESULT

Of A Bar Argument. An argument over the closing hour of a bar in the Springdale Golf Club ended last week with police issuing a summons against a Cranbury resident.

Michael Shillaber of Princeton Arms, Cranbury, was charged with simple assault after he allegedly struck a Mercer County corrections officer during an argument at the club bar at 9:20 Saturday evening.

Police said that the victim later came to police headquarters and signed a complaint against Mr. Shillaber. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court April 20.

DRIVER LOSES LICENSE

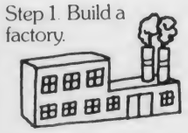
Our step-by-step guide to making perfect upholstery that's perfectly priced.

INTRODUCTORY SALE—ONE WEEK ONLY!

Step 1. Build a factory.



After years of trying to find upholstery that met every one of our standards, we gave up. And realized we'd have to make it ourselves. So we started from the ground up and built a factory.

Step 2. Gather a team of real pros.

Upholstery is only as good as the people that make it. To meet our own quality standards we hired only the best. Now, for guaranteed quality control, every piece from our factory is proudly signed by the upholsterer who hand built it, step by meticulous step.

Step 3. Choose solid, kiln-dried, 1¼" thick maple.

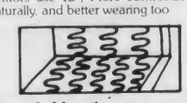
Our frames are made from heavy maple (not cheaper softwoods.) This makes them really strong. And really heavy.

Step 4. Double-dowel all joints and corner block seat frames.

We reinforce the stress points to prevent twisting and separation. Results: a stronger, more stable, more durable frame. Try to twist an arm and you'll find practically no wobble or give. Proof of its high quality.

Step 5. Use five 8-gauge steel springs beneath each seat cushion.

Underneath it all, it's the springs that are the basis of seating comfort. Which is why we use heavy gauge sinuous steel springs—five beneath each seat. (That's 15 in a sofa where most competitors use 12.) More comfortable, naturally, and better wearing too.



Step 6. Use three 11-gauge steel springs behind each back cushion.

Many manufacturers use no springs at all in their backs. We use three per cushion. Costly. But, of course, far more comfortable.

Step 7. Pad the interior and the exterior.

When upholstery fabric is stretched directly over hard edges, it wears quickly and tears easily. On the interior surfaces of our upholstery we use far more padding than most makers. Really generous amounts. On the exterior surfaces, where many makers don't pad, we pad. The results? Durability and significantly greater comfort.

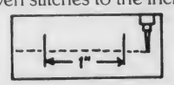
Step 8. Buy better foam for cushions.

Our seat cushions are made of heavy, high-density, high-compression foam to provide proper support under body weight. Back cushions should be softer, and ours are. Most manufacturers spend less on foam, but we won't stint on comfort or durability.

Step 9. Wrap all cushions with plenty of Dacron.®

We bond a plush layer of Dacron® to all our cushions. This insures a downy soft surface without lumps or wrinkles.

Step 10. Sew every seam seven stitches to the inch.



We start with heavy nylon thread. Then, every seam we sew has seven tiny stitches to the inch. Time-consuming. But the extra care shows in crisp tailoring and longer wear.

Step 11. Give all seams a half-inch allowance.

Some manufacturers skimp on seams. Our generous half-inch allowance means more than just good looks. The seams won't pull or fray. Unzip a cushion cover to see our better tailoring for yourself.

Step 12. Design classic modern styles.

Obviously, upholstery is a major investment. Which is why we don't design pieces that look divine one year, and dated the next. Our classic modern designs are at home in formal or casual settings. You'll find coordinated chairs, loveseats, sofas, plus ottomans, sleepers and modular units.

Step 13. Choose terrific fabrics.

We don't give you a huge choice. (This cuts down on costs.) But we do give you a terrific one. Including lush velvets, sophisticated wools and durable tweeds. And every fabric is Scotchgard™ for extra protection.

Step 14. Keep the prices down.

Here's where we really shine. Because there is no middle-man, there's no middle-man profit. So by turning these extra dollars into quality features we can offer you an extraordinary value. But don't just take our word for it. Come in, sit down and see for yourself why we believe we've achieved our aim—perfect upholstery that's perfectly priced.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

NO PLANT IS MAINTENANCE FREE – with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Many of us plant evergreens with the idea that they will need little or no maintenance. As a rule of thumb this is true. At some point even the conifer evergreen will need a bit of help so as not to exceed its boundaries. Here below are a few suggestions on pruning them.

JUNIPERS – Shrubby junipers need their dominant branches pruned back to promote density and ensure uniform growth. Don't just shear the tips. Use good sharp hand pruner to trim back branches selectively to give the branches a feathered appearance. If the plant needs severe cutting back, select some of the most vigorous branches to prune all the way back to a healthy side branch. These side branches might also be trimmed back, but leave enough foliage to cover the dead areas inside the plant. Although minor pruning can be done just about anytime, it is best to do it in early spring before the years new growth starts. Creeping junipers are pruned about the same as spreading junipers. Trim back the long shoots before they reach a sidewall or garden structure. Cut back excessively long limbs to vigorous side branches and do not leave stubs. Semi-upright junipers are also pruned in the same way as spreading junipers. Be careful not to cut too far into the center dead zone, as bare branches will never develop new foliage. Upright junipers may be lightly sheared with hedge shears to cut back overly vigorous shoots and to increase the density of the plant. When trying to top the plant or remove excessive height, be careful how far you cut back. No more than 20 percent of the plants height should be removed.

Next week we'll discuss the pruning of Yews and Arborvitae. Do call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for all your garden's needs.

PCH HEARING SET

Appeal to Committee. Township Committee has set Monday, April 25, at 8:30 p.m. as the date and time for its hearing of an appeal by opponents of Princeton Community Housing's apartments on Elm Road.

Appeal is from the decision of the Township Zoning Board approving a detention basin for the project. Although the apartments are planned for Borough-owned property, the required storm-detention basin is across the municipal line in the Township.

Opponents did not file an appeal from the decision of the Borough Zoning Board granting site-plan approval to the project; however, the Borough body's original granting of a use variance was challenged by opponents and is still in litigation.

OPEN HOUSE SET

At Girl Scout Camp. Outdoor education, adventure and fun will be the theme of the open house scheduled for the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council's Camp Sacajawea on Saturday from 11 to 3.

Girls and parents may visit the resident camp in Sparta Township, Sussex County, to meet the staff, examine the facilities and tour the site. A slide-tape presentation of last summer's program will be available for viewing. The program is open to all girls entering grades 2 through 12, and girls need not be Girl Scouts.

Weekly and two-week sessions will run from July 10 through August 20. Activities include rock climbing, rappelling, canoeing, kayaking and floating down the Delaware River in inner tubes. An equestrienne program for girls entering grades 4 through 10 has been structured to each participant's ability.

Several programs have been scheduled for younger girls, many of them centering around Camp Sacajawea's glacier lake. Swimming, boating, hiking, and arts and crafts are all available. Prices range from $125 for a one-week program to $285 for the two-week equestrienne session.

For information call the council's service center at (800) 572-2656 or (201) 738-8200.

Cessation of Hostilities

Governor Thomas H. Kean will sign a proclamation Friday at 12:30 commemorating the 200th anniversary of the close of hostilities in New Jersey between British and American forces.

The Governor's proclamation will initiate the final stage of New Jersey's Bicentennial celebration. Commemorative events are scheduled this year throughout the state in observance of the end of the Revolutionary War and the signing of the Treaty of Paris.

FERTILIZER SALE SET

In West Windsor. The West Windsor Lions Club will hold its annual fertilizer sale on Saturday.

Scotts brand and other fertilizers will be available from 9 to 3 at Lucar Hardware in Princeton Junction, along with grass seed, spreaders and other products. An expert will be available to answer questions.

The first 25 customers will receive a free Colorado blue spruce tree seedling.

Saturday will also be pick-up day for those who ordered evergreen seedlings through the Lions. They may be picked up at Lucar Hardware.

'LIBRARY WEEK'

Library to Celebrate. The Princeton Public Library will mark National Library Week, Monday through Saturday of next week, with a bow to its volunteers.

Donald Eckroyd, who gives "Readings Over Coffee" once a month, will be presented with a scroll, designed by Margaret Hastings, marking 20 years of "Readings." It will be given to Dr. Eckroyd at next Wednesday's 10:30 a.m. "Reading," by Archie Lummis, member of the Council of the Friends of the Princeton Public Library.

On Monday, 75 library volunteers will be guests of honor at a reception given by the library and the Friends. Each will receive a Certificate of Appreciation.

The library will also mark the week with an amnesty on fines. Overdue books, no matter how long overdue, will be received without question, and a prize awarded on April 30 to the longest overdue.

8,000 Volumes Gone. Robert Staples, librarian, says the library is missing 8,000 books.

"People don't understand that they'll have to pay thousands of dollars, through taxes, to replace those that are not returned," Mr. Staples said. The cost for replacement books in fiscal 1982, was $6,000.

Eric Greenfeldt, of the library's staff, said that after the amnesty, the library will begin to enforce the ordinance against chronic late-returners. The Borough law calls for a fine as high as $100, if books are not returned after the ordinance's procedure has been followed.

Variety of Programs. Next Tuesday at 2, there will be story-telling for pre-schoolers. Next Thursday at 3:30, "Sound and Stories" will use words and instruments to tell stories to children.

Next Thursday at 8 p.m., the library will show "Princeton: A History", conceived and produced by Lewis Carter Cuyler and first shown last June. Using John E. Hageman's "History of Princeton and its Institutions," Mr. Cuyler covers the development of Princeton from early Quaker settlement to the present.

Princeton actor Karl Light interprets the first two centuries, through Mr. Hageman's eyes. Nancy Knox, of the Historical Society of Princeton, takes the narrative from 1878 to the present.

At the end of Library Week, the Friends will hold a book sale. Donated books and used books removed from the library's shelves will be on sale in the meeting room. Hours are Friday, April 22 from noon to 5 and Saturday, April 23 from 9 to 4.

Throughout the week, members of the Friends will serve coffee at the library: 10 to noon daily except Thursday; 1:30 to 4 Thursday; 7 to 9 p.m. Monday.

"Monstrosity"
To the Editor of Town Topics:

What is Collins trying to do? That kiosk is an ugly monstrosity. Do they really think that is Colonial Architecture?

I have always shopped in the square and along Nassau Street. The shopkeepers and salespeople are my friends; they know my needs and tastes. Whenever my mother comes down from New York City, practically her first words are, "When can we go to Clayton's; I'm so tired of Bloomingdale's and Saks."

To pay $.80 for one hour and five minutes of parking can only drive people to the malls.

Mrs. Cottier in her letter of last week suggests that we, of Princeton, voice one opinion. I think we need a committee of concerned citizens to stop this desecration. I hope we are not too late.

The Youngest Critic
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a citizen of Princeton I would like to share my thoughts with other members of the community. My thoughts about the kiosk are that it is a very ugly building. There are enough newsstands in Princeton as is and I do not want Princeton to turn into a tourist attraction. I think Princeton is a very beautiful community. I would like Princeton to stay the way it was.

Architecture School at Fault?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It's a forlorn hope in a tasteless age, but a consummation devoutly to be wished: that any school of architecture graduating the likes of the designer of the tacky Palmer Square kiosk would have its accreditation permanently revoked.

It's Not Too Late
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is not too late for Princeton citizens to speak up now, with your own pens, about any objections you may have about the plans that the Collins Developers Inc. have for our Palmer Square. It is up to each citizen to make his or her opinions known, instead of just grumbling to friends and neighbors.

First, take a look at the model plans in the lobby of the Nassau Inn. It will be even more apparent that the Collins Developers, who have bought the space, now wish to get their money back by cluttering up the very space that we all have preferred to be uncluttered, for many years.

Most of us know how many shops have come and gone because their particular "golden dreams" did not fit in with this particular type of market. There always is a real need for apartments, especially for people, old and young who cannot afford the high rents that the Collins plans, obviously, seem determined to foist on our town.

A developer can only please the people, and pay off his own expenses, when he becomes far more sensitive to the real needs of this particular town. All concerned people should send their opinions to the Princeton Regional Planning Board and the Princeton Borough Council.

Thoughts on Palmer Square.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Must we campaign for a referendum on the question as to whether or not the purchaser for 17 million dollars of a piece of Boro realty can ride roughly with an axe over the shopping and business habits of its taxpayers? They are the people inconvenienced by upheavals, but what is worse, are the ones to pay for increased rentals and the imposition of so called progressive business of any kind.

Do you suppose that our somnolent Palmer Square tiger and its pedestal will soon be judged in the way of progress, and hence ignominiously removed? I believe there is a law that protects works of art from destruction, but after all "Lunch Time" as well as a fountain recently gave way to a kiosk.

The last time I lived in Paris, 1932, it was already being bruited about the kiosks and pissoirs were anacronisms as well as obstructions.

Do you suppose our recently imposed, and highly tooted, example of the former looks for academic standing because of its proximity to Nassau Hall?

Access to Firestone.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have written to Princeton University President William G. Bowen.

As a former Princeton resident, and as an alumnus of the University, I was extremely disappointed to learn of the administration's decision to restrict public access to Firestone Library. While I understand the reasoning behind the decision, I question whether more creative and thoughtful solutions were discussed, and if so, why they were rejected in favor of the policy that was adopted.

More than ten years ago, as a high school student in search of sources for a term paper, I was referred to Firestone by the staff of the Princeton Library. In the course of looking through the stacks to find certain titles, I came across a wealth of other material.

I don't even remember if I ever used the books I had set out to find, but in the stacks of Firestone I discovered an incredible resource, one that I would use not only in further academic work in high school, but for my own enlightenment.

That this resource will no longer be available to local residents is deeply disturbing to me. I know that the accessibility of Firestone had a very stimulating effect on my excitement for education. It also gave me a very positive feeling about the University, that a private college was generous enough to share its resources with the public.

This positive feeling in no small part contributed to my eventual decision to attend Princeton. I am now concerned that the restriction of this generosity may be a symbol of the University as a whole becoming less accessible to Princeton area residents.

Because I have always lived in a college town, I have always been aware of the kinds of conflicts that arise between local residents and members of the college community. Here in Middlebury, despite the extraordinary and continuous efforts made by the college administration and staff to make college facilities and resources available to the public, there still seems to be a lot of resentment directed against the college.

But for those who are willing to make the effort, the college is an incredible educational resource: all cultural events are open to the public; auditing of classes is easily arranged; use of college space by non-college affiliated organizations is commonplace. And as it relates to the subject of this letter, any area resident may, for a very modest fee, check out books at the college library.

And anyone may enter the library to read material on the premises. A simple security system, identical to the one used at Firestone's reserve room when I was a student, is used at the entry to the building.

While I am certain that Firestone's collection is much larger than the Middlebury College library's, I am curious why this system was not implemented. Was the final decision the only one that was considered cost effective? Was the ill will caused by the restriction of access to Firestone anticipated? Was the trade-off between theft losses and bad p.r. considered?

Yet another drawback to the restricted access policy is that, as an alumnus, it is difficult to get into the University library. While recently visiting my parents in town, I wanted to look up a title in the card catalogue at Firestone. I was more than a little suprised and annoyed that I couldn't get past the entrance desk without proper credentials, and that the access office was not open to issue me such credentials.

As an undergraduate I specifically recall showing off Firestone to visitors from other colleges as a symbol of the University's committment to education, as a symbol of Princeton's willingness to share its resources with whoever wished to make use of them. What was once a source of pride to me has become a symbol of shame and embarassment.

While many administration decisions made during my four undergraduate years and in the time since then were ones that I either agreed or disagreed with, none has compelled me to express my feelings to you or any other member of the University community. Because I care so much for Princeton, I am writing you now to ask that the decision to restrict public access to Firestone Library be reconsidered. If there is anything that I can do as an individual to facilitate such a re-evaluation, I would consider it my duty to perform it.

S.A.V.E.'s Job Praised.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing to call attention to the excellent animal shelter S.A.V.E. (Small Animal Veterinary Endowment) serving the Princeton area. The shelter is managed by Mrs. Graves, a person who truly cares about animals. It is not only that the shelter is sanitary and comfortable, but also that Mrs. Graves does a superb job of trying to understand the qualities of the animals in order to match them with an appropriate new pet owner.

Due to circumstances beyond my control, I had to get rid of a dog that had been part of our family for five years. My grown children were deeply upset at the thought of pushing our pet out and everyone told me how difficult it would be to find a suitable place for him. But Mrs. Graves found a loving home for our dog and, as is her usual practice, she has kept in touch with both his old and his new home to make certain that there are no misunderstandings or regrets.

I believe Mrs. Graves and S.A.V.E. should have all the support that can be given. (S.A.V.E. is a private charitable organization, and a cash donation is tax deductible.) Princeton's animal shelter is run by a dedicated person who truly loves and understands animals.

MEMBER FITNESS EVALUATION AND EXAMINATION

The MEMBER FITNESS EVALUATION AND EXAMINATION helps detect potential problem areas in the neuromuscular and skeletal systems. Initial data is used to provide a basis for an individualized exercise regimen, with subsequent examinations providing a valuable comparison to evaluate both aerobic and anaerobic progress to demonstrate the improvement of the individual's condition.

Included in the examination:

1. HISTORY: In depth probing of past record of old injuries and structural limitations.
2. VITAL STATISTICS: Information consisting of sex, age, height and personal measurements, e.g. leg, chest, waist, thighs, arms, etc. Your percentage of body fat will be determined as well as your pulse and blood pressure.
3. NEUROLOGICAL AND ORTHOPEDIC EXAMINATION: Testing basic reflexes, selecting orthopedic tests and checking for full range of motion of the joints.
4. POSTURAL ANALYSIS: Assessment will include an analysis of postural alignment for conditions such as Scoliosis.
5. KINESIOLOGICAL EVALUATION: Test of major muscle groups of the body, from deltoids to hamstrings to determine any possible weakness or muscle imbalance.
6. SUBMAXIMAL STRESS TEST: Evaluation of Aerobic Cardiovascular capacity, using the step test or a bicycle Ergometer, whichever is best suited for you. The submaximal stress test will reveal your cardiovascular potential...we want to know what your heart is up to!

The information gained is vital in accurately assessing the appropriate fitness program for you.

Princeton Glee Club Director for 25 Years Marks Anniversary with Unusual Concert

A SPECIAL CONCERT: When Walter Nollner conducts the Princeton University Glee Club this week in Alexander Hall in two performances of Stravinsky's "Svadyebka," he will be simultaneously marking an anniversary, realizing an ambition and trying out a new way of performing this infrequently heard work. "It is a bold and daring undertaking," marvels the president of the Glee Club, "but the key thing about 'Wally' is that he is not afraid to expose his students to different types of music and musical experience."

Walter Nollner will mark his 25 years as director of the Princeton University Glee Club by tackling a work he has wanted to do for 10 years.

A hearty, husky man of unbounded energy and enthusiasm, Mr. Nollner is professor of music at Princeton and director of music for the University Chapel. For 10 of his 25 years on campus he has also conducted the Chapel.

This Thursday and Friday at 8 in Alexander Hall, he will lead the Glee Club in back-to-back performances of three works: J.S.Bach's "Missa Brevis," with three Glee Club alumni who have made music their careers as soloists; Heinrich Schutz's "Komm heiliger Geist"("Come, Holy Ghost") with current Glee Club members performing the solos; and Igor Stravinsky's "Svadyebka" ("The Wedding"), sung in Russian.

It is this last piece that presents challenges worthy of a 25th anniversary. Better known by its French title, "Les Noces," but rarely performed, and then usually in French or English, the work is difficult but "superb," Prof. Nollner thinks, particularly when sung in Russian. "The language makes all the difference," he says, "in sheer sound and in what you can sense is the validity and coherence of the piece."

Performance Requirements. "Svadyebka" is scored for four pianos, a battery of percussion, four soloists and a well-trained chorus. Glee Club members not only have to sing the constantly changing rhythms rapidly and on pitch, but they have also had to learn the rudiments of a difficult language as well.

Then too, Prof. Nollner says, conductors attempting this big work bring on four huge concert grand pianos–with four pianists who take Stravinsky's "triple forte" directions literally--and so much percussion that the voices are submerged. He will attempt to redress the balance with four small grand pianos and fewer percussion.

"I am anxious to bring the piece before the public so it can be heard," he says. "My words may be brave, but I am trying to correct a perception that says the balance problems are insoluble." Mr. Nollner thinks a lot of 20th century music is not understood or appreciated because the performance is so often inadequate.

Alumni Soloists. The soloists will be William Parker '65, a baritone who sang the Bach "Missa Brevis" with the Glee Club in its first tour of Europe his senior year and who will be making his debut with the New York City Opera this fall as Papageno in "The Marriage of Figaro"; soprano Andrea Matthews '78, who took second prize in Boston opera auditions and won the American singing teachers competition; and alto Mimmi Fulmer '74 who teaches voice at Ithaca College and performs with various New York opera theater. Frank Hoffmeister, who has performed with Prof Nollner in the past, will sing the tenor solo.

Mr. Nollner started his own life in music as a pianist. As an undergraduate at the University of California at Berkeley, he gradually become more interested in theory and then in composition. His studies were interrupted by three years in the Army Signal Corps during World War II in which he did some composing and some chorus conducting. After the war he returned to Berkely and studied composition with Roger Sessions for four years while he earned his A.B. in music with highest honors in 1946 and the M.A. in music three years later.

In 1950 he went to Williams College to teach theory and to be a composer, a conductor and pianist. "It was a wonderful situation," he says. "There were three, then four, members of the music department, and one had to do everything simultaneously. I didn't want to give any of it up."

Eventually, however, he decided he was not going to be a major composer, and when he came to Princeton in 1958 it was to direct the Glee Club, teach introduction to music theory and initiate a course in the history of choral music that he still teaches every three years, or once to each succeeding generation of students.

Glees vs. the three Bs. Asked if it is not usually the province of a choir to perform the great sacred choral works and the glee club to sing sea chanties and college drinking songs, Prof. Nollner winces. He remembers the time an alumnus came up to him after a concert (perhaps the all-Schonberg program in Carnegie Hall to celebrate the Glee Club's 100th anniversary in 1974) and said: "I thought the Glee Club did glees."

Glees, he explains, were unaccompanied part songs for male voices set to a humorous, often bawdy text, that were sung around a libation at social gatherings in 18th century England. In the early years, he says, glee clubs as organizations of "gentlemen songsters off on a spree" exemplified this tradition, but as time went on male choruses found it too limiting. He credits Archibald ("Doc") T. Davison, longtime director of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, with revolutionizing the repertoire by producing many arrangements of classical music for male chorus.

"My own repertoire preference is Bach, Beethoven and Brahms," Prof. Nollner says. He thinks the greatest delight of the Glee Club is in performing the classics, and not just the well-known ones. The advent of women in the early 1970s revolutionized the music program at Princeton; before co-education the Princeton Glee Club sang joint concerts with choral groups from Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Wellesley and Smith.

The Glee Club begins its performances each year with joint concerts of "lighter" music with the Harvard and Yale clubs on the eve of the "Big Three" football games. Concerts of "serious" music are performed in February and April, and there is usually another "light" program for the Houseparties Concert in May or Reunions in June. This year the Glee Club joined with the Chapel Choir to sing the Brahms Requiem in February.

Tours Around the World. Prof. Nollner clearly relishes the tours on which he leads Glee Club members to various parts of the globe every two or three summers. In 1980, the Glee Club made a very successful around-the-world tour, beginning in California and then journeying to Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong and India. The Far Eastern part of that tour was to have been repeated in 1982 but was deferred, and a European tour was substituted. The trip included singing in such awesome places as the Matyas Templom in Budapest, the Basilica San Marco in Venice and Chartres Cathedral in France.

The Far Eastern tour will be resumed this summer with the 60-member Chamber Chorus, composed of Glee Club and Chapel Choir singers. It may include a week in residence at Peking University if the "official" cultural exchanges cancelled this week by the Republic of China in protest over the defection of a tennis player do not include "unofficial" cultural exchanges by student groups.

Educational experience. "I regard this as an educational experience for the students, and so does the University," Prof. Nollner remarks. He limits the concerts to three a week so that the students can have a chance to "know where they are, who these people are with whom they are singing, and to learn something about themselves in the process."

He is openly admiring of the intelligence of Princeton University students and their ability to absorb a great deal of information in a very short time. He describes the trips as "bringing the best we can of Western music and enjoying the sort of experience I find exceptional in human experience."

Prof. Nollner sees his role as increasing a knowledge of music and a commitment to it so that it might occupy a part of his students' lives. "A life of music has been rewarding to me, and I'll be delighted if it is rewarding to them. The fact is that a great many people have sung in my choruses and have continued a relationship to music is the thing that I am the proudest of," he says.

SCIENCE DAY SET

At Littlebrook. Dancing bees, hurricanes and giant chains of DNA will all be a part of a PTO-sponsored Science Day at Littlebrook School to be held on Thursday.

Each class, kindergarten through fifth grade, will have the opportunity to explore several different areas of science throughout the day. Presentations will be volunteered by scientists, doctors, a dentist and teachers in the areas of biology, chemistry, physics, math and the social sciences. Many of those making presentations are parents of Littlebrook students.

Student involvement will range from "hands on" to discussion and participation in demonstrations and experiments. Kindergartners will journey through parts of the digestive tract, as well as have an opportunity to see and talk about dinosaur bones. First, second and third graders will experiment with mealworms, learn about the special properties of air and water, explore the binary numbers, see slides on space travel, discuss fossils, probe the unknown territories of "ESP", or join a line-up of students holding different colored balloons to illustrate how DNA chains create protein.

Fourth graders may find themselves in the midst of a hurricane, at work on math puzzles, learning what "Mystery Powders" can do, understanding what lies behind the dance of the bees, or exploring the frontiers of the brain. Fifth graders will work with computers, learn about dental care from a dentist's point of view, or explore the "Ames Room" of visual illusions used to explain social prejudices and psychological phenomena.

The last part of Science Day will give fourth and fifth graders the opportunity to share with the younger classes what they have learned through their own recent classroom experiments.

Science Day is a PTO-sponsored event co-chaired by Mary Degnan and Ann Kahn. Along with committee staff representatives Principal George Petrillo and teachers Sam Ishibashi and Mary Ann Hynitzke, they have coordinated the efforts of approximately 35 parent volunteers who have contributed to planning, scheduling and setting up over 20 different presentations, as well as providing lunch for school staff, participants and other volunteers.

FREE AEROBIC SESSION

At YMCA. The Princeton YMCA will offer a free aerobic trial class on Monday evening from 8-9 in the YM-YWCA all-purpose room. The one-hour demonstration will be an opportunity to see as well as participate in aerobic exercise routines.

The YMCA "Joy" Aerobics Program, developed in 1979 by a team of exercise physiologists, is a fitness program that improves cardiovascular health and muscle tone, and increases flexibility. A typical aerobics class includes a 15 minute warm-up period to loosen the muscles, 35 minutes of aerobics exercises, and a 10 minute cooldown period for relaxation. The routines are done to music.

Robin Ennis is the instructor for the course, and will begin a new eight-week session at the YMCA in May.

No reservations are needed for the trial class. Tennis shoes and loose clothing are recommended. Call the YMCA at 924-4497 for more information.

ANTIQUES SHOW SET

In West Windsor. West Windsor-Plainsboro Community Education will sponsor its first annual Antiques Show on Saturday at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, Route 571 and Clarksville Road.

The show will be devoted to American country and period furniture, folk art, primitives and accessories. Some 70 dealers from New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania will be on hand.

The show will include tables, stands, chairs, cupboards, pewter, silver, quilts, stoneware, redware, early iron, brass and other antiques. It will be managed by Geoffrey Genovese of GG Antiques Shows.

SAILING CLINICS SET

On Lake Carnegie. The Carnegie Sailing Club will present a series of free sailing clinics designed for the person, young or old, who would like to learn the basics of sailing or improve his skills in small boat handling.

Sunfish and Laser class sailboats will be available for sailing instruction. Clinics will begin Sunday, April 24, at 1 pm at the Carnegie Sailing Club boathouse (at the far end of Lake Carnegie, near the dam) and be held May 1, 8 and 22. For information please contact either Commodore Peter M. Grosz, 924-6019, or Vice Commodore Mrs. Duncan Bethune, 924-2655.

A ten-week series of Sunday sailing races for Sunfish and Laser class sailbots will begin Sunday sponsored by the Carnegie Sailing Club. Area residents who own a Laser or Sunfish are invited to participate in the CSC spring racing program. Races begin every Sunday at 1:30 p.m. EST (2 p.m. DST) at the

How to Have a "Fine"* Time Celebrating LIBRARY WEEK

April 18 - 23

(*That's a joke: See No. 1 below)

1. All fines are forgiven and forgotten during Library Week, so the first thing you do, is return the gardening book you checked out in March, 1979. No questions asked. Of you, by the library. You can even sneak it into the book-drop.
2. You could win a prize. The MOST overdue book will win a prize, but the library isn't saying what the prize is. Very suspicious.

The most overdue children's book will win another prize. That one is just too easy: it's the "Babar the Elephant" you left at Granny's house, Christmas of '78.

"We are currently missing 8,000 books," says librarian Robert Staples with a dark and frowning stare. But he doesn't hold you responsible for all of them.

3. Then, you buy a book. (That way, you'll never have a fine). Books donated by the Friends of the Princeton Public Library, and things like old travel books removed from the library's own shelves, will be for sale in the upstairs reading room on Friday, April 22 from noon to 5, and Saturday, April 23 from 9 to 4.
4. Tee-shirts? One for everybody in the family, $5 each. There's this drawing by Joan Robinson that shows all kinds of interesting animals peeking out of a book, and lettering to inform anybody who looks at you, that you are emotionally and sartorially involved with THE PRINCETON PUBLIC LIBRARY.
5. Tote bag? Those wonderful white plastic ones are all gone. BUT .... new tote $8 bags will be at the book sale. After all, you've got to buy a tote bag to tote home all the books you've bought.
6. Do you have a dear friend who never returns your borrowed books? A library that can forgive fines, can forgive such a friend. (After all, the library forgave you, didn't it?)

The library's tactful device is a "checkbook" called a "Book-lender's reminder." When you lend, fill out your name and the name of the book on the "check" and give it to the borrower. It then becomes the bookmark. On the check-stub is the name of the friend and the book. (Better put in the date, too.) Buy one when you buy all those books.

7. Posters! Big. Colorful. All very up-beat about reading. Buy a lot. Librarian Eric Greenfeldt has ordered Annie, Yoda, Mickey Mouse, and even more. $5 each.

Irene Farley is head of the Long Range Planning Committee (what a "Princeton" title!) for the Friends of the Princeton Public Library and her committee thought up all those ideas about tee-shirts, tote bags, book-loan checkbooks, a library store. She would be very happy indeed if you were to decide to join the Friends during Library Week.

8. ... but before the book sale:

Throughout the week, Friends will serve daily coffee. (On Saturday — free balloons!) Coffee time is 10 to noon daily except Thursday, when coffee will be served from 1:30 to 4. There will also be coffee Monday night from 7 to 9.

Tuesday, April 19, 2 p.m.: pre-school, half-hour story program with filmstrip. No registration required.

Wednesday, April 20, 10:30 a.m.: "Readings Over Coffee". Donald Eckroyd has chosen "The Importance of Being Earnest." (Can you believe it? This April is the 20th anniversary of "Readings Over Coffee.")

Thursday, April 21, 3:30: "Sound and Stories," with storyteller Susan Danoff and musician John Burkhalter; children can participate, as well as listen and look.

Thursday, April 21, 8 p.m.: "Princeton ... A History," sound-slide show by Lewis C. Cuyler, starring Karl Light and Nancy Knox as narrators.

Princeton's library is USED. (They had to lay a new carpet because of all the feet).

A regular business clientele uses Barrons, 15 business magazines and the Dow Jones News Retrieval System.

Dudley Carson, in the children's room, teaches young readers how to use the library, how to find books about dinosaurs and detectives and the home-work project.

The library is baby-sitter for many latch-key kids, who come after school and stay until daddy and mommie come home from work.

Kids just learning to read can watch a film strip that shows the printed page while they listen to someone read that page aloud. Or, if you're too little to read yet, the machine will read aloud to you. (see photo).

From early February, William Volk and Jean Whitall have been helping people with income-tax forms. Two hours every Wednesday. Lines form, waiting for the two experts to arrive. (The IRS itself referred one senior citizen to the library's Volk-Whitall team.)

And volunteers ....! 75 of them will be honored at a special reception Monday, and given a Certificate of Appreciation ... 15 men and women in the Adult Basic Reading program teach adults how to read ... other volunteers deliver books to shut-ins, sometimes reading aloud to them ... volunteers provide refreshments for library events ... a volunteer indexes Princeton newspapers ...

Well ..... now you know how to celebrate LIBRARY WEEK.

If you have any questions, ask the librarians. When you take back that book on gardening.

ON EYE RESEARCH

Talk, for RP Group. Dr. Ronald Carr, a researcher in the field of retinitis pigmentosa, will speak this Thursday at 8 p.m. to members of the Central New Jersey RP Self-Help Group. The meeting will be held in the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street.

Dr. Carr is looking for new ways to determine the function of the retina in both healthy and diseased eyes. His research has been helpful in the early diagnosis of retinitis pigmentosa and allied retinal degenerations. Many members of the RP Self-Help Group are currently his patients.

TO HOST CONFERENCE

Of Independent Schools. The New Jersey Association of Independent Schools (NJAIS) will conduct its annual conference this year on Friday, April 22, at Princeton Day School. Approximately 500 teachers and administrators from over 50 independent schools in the state are expected to attend the session, the purpose of which is to provide a combination of people training, inter-school enrichment, and topical professional growth.

Sanford B. Bing, acting headmaster of PDS, and John Esty, president of the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS) will welcome guests prior to the introduction of the keynote speaker, Dr. Douglas Heath, professor of psychology at Haverford College in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Heath will talk about "Morale in NJAIS Schools: Facts and Factors." His remarks will be based on the results of the 1982 morale-climate survey of NJAIS participating schools, covering the implications of the data and a consumer's assessment of independent education in New Jersey today.

Concurrent sessions commencing at 11 a.m. will cover a broad and diverse range of topics from "Model Approaches to Teaching National Security: The Nuclear Arms Race" to "Aesthetic Education: The Lincoln Center Approach." Among other experts, Sharon Powell of Princeton will speak on "Peer Leadership Training: Problem Solving for Adolescents." In addition to the sessions, there will be a computer software exhibit in the upper library, and a books and equipment exhibit in the main gymnasium.

This year's Conference Committee is co-chaired by Pete Jaques and Jane Fremon, both of Princeton Day School.

John Witherspoon Students Take Pen In Hand

The John Witherspoon Middle School is conducting a Wednesday afternoon journalism program starting April 13th and continuing each Wednesday afternoon through May 18th. Students will have six afternoons from 1 to 2:30 p.m. to plan, write and design a school magazine.

Much time and effort has been devoted to this program to enable the students to learn about the world of journalism. Arnie Ropeik and Peg Carey from the Trenton Times will speak about journalism on April 13th. Through group discussions, the students will learn how to write a news story and how to organize a publication.

Pam Hersh of the Princeton Packet will advise the students on how to interview for the press as well as discuss tactics, ideas for stories and how to go about prospective assignments.

John Witherspoon students are most fortunate to have the opportunity to meet and hear Landon Jones, Managing Editor of People Magazine, Martin Griff of the Trenton Times People Poll and Kay Bretnall of Town Topics discuss, advise and edit the students' stories and interviews. Eva Kaplan will also be on hand to help the cartoonists with their illustrations.

With the help from the Trenton Times, all students will be involved in making up the dummie sheets to determine the eventual look of the upcoming magazine. As a final dimension to this diversified journalistic program, the Trenton Times has offered a tour of their Trenton plant.

The culmination of this effort will result in a magazine to be sold hopefully to the public on SUPER SATURDAY.

The John Witherspoon Middle School will hold its second annual Book Fair on April 18 - 22 from 8:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and on Wednesday evening, April 20th from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Students and parents are encouraged to drop in a purchase some interesting reading material. Books will be supplied by Tittes Unlimited with 20% of the sales donated to the school.

A Book Mark Contest will also be held during this time. The theme of the contest is "The Book Fair." There will be one winner per house and the winners will distribute their winning bookmarks in their houses the week of the Book Fair.

Foreign Language Week At John Witherspoon Middle School

Foreign Language week was celebrated March 14-18 at John Witherspoon. Each morning there was either French or Spanish music played in the halls followed by bi-lingual announcements. Bulletin boards were decorated with cultural pictures and information about the value of Foreign Language Study and careers which utilize Foreign Languages. The annual poster contest was a big success. The winning posters are on display in the school library. The highlight of the week was the publication of our first French and Spanish literary magazine with poems, games, puzzles, cartoons and art work by many students. Foreign Language study is alive and thriving at John Witherspoon!

FIRM TO DO STUDY

Of Financial Centers. In response to the development of centers that provide financial services through mass-merchandising outlets, Response Analysis Corporation will initiate a new study of retail financial centers in Sears, JCPenney, and Kroger stores.

To be entitled "Sears, JCPenney, Kroger Financial Service Centers," the forthcoming study is a follow-up to a study of consumers' reactions to Sears Financial Centers recently completed by Response Analysis. The purposes of the research are to evaluate the centers' present market penetration, to project their future penetration, and to assess their impact upon competitive providers of financial services.

The study will involve telephone interviews with residents living within a five to 10 miles radius of malls or shopping centers in which the centers are located as well as in-person interviews with shoppers and visitors at the centers. Observation reports made by field observers at each of the locations will complement these data collection efforts.

HAZARDOUS WASTE

Chamber Topic. Two speakers will discuss hazardous waste, water pollution and related environmental problems for members of the Chamber of Commerce when the group meets next Thursday, April 21, at the Nassau Inn. The meeting will be from noon to 2.

Dr. Robert H. Harris is a senior research scientist at Princeton University and Richard J. Gimello is executive director of New Jersey's Hazardous Waste Siting Commission.

Reservations for the luncheon meeting may be made by calling 921-7676.

Donald L. LeBlanc of Flemington has been named to the newly-created position of vice president, special markets, for Lenox China and Crystal. In his new position, he will be responsible for directing Lenox's activities in the export, military, incentive and institutional markets.

Before joining Lenox, Mr. LeBlanc was with Corning Glass Works for 15 years in a number of positions, most recently vice president and general sales manager for corning designs. He received his B.S. in business and economics from Northeastern University.

POLICE EXPANSION

Architect Chosen. E. Harvey Myers will be the architect for the remodeling of Borough police headquarters. Council is scheduled to pass the $400,000 bond ordinance this Wednesday, and then Mr. Myers can move ahead.

Council is also scheduled to pass the ordinance for a $30,000 sewer evaluation survey and a bond ordinance to pay for the re-roofing of Borough Hall.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley told reporters Monday that the Borough expects to wrap up its agreements with Collins Development in the next two weeks. A meeting, which the mayor hopes will be the final one, will be held with Collins later this week, he said.

Lease arrangements for the Borough-owned land where the Chambers garage will be built; air-rights for the Nassau Inn bridge addition over Palmer Square East; ways to reduce all-day parking and overall matters of security are still under discussion, the mayor said.

TRUST CO. NOT MOVING

From Palmer Square. The Horizon Trust Co., formerly the Trusts Department of Princeton Bank & Trust Co., is not moving from the second floor of One Palmer Square.

It is only the executive offices of Princeton Bank, and its personnel office from the third floor that are moving to new quarters in Forrestal, along with operations from quarters it has outgrown on State Road. The article in the March 30 issue of TOWN TOPICS made no mention of Horizon Trust Co. when it listed a number of firms and offices that are in the process of moving from the building, but apparently a number of people were concerned that this firm might also be moving.

ROSZEL APPOINTED

Bowers Vice President. Malcolm B. Roszel, Dutch Neck, has been named vice-president of Bowers Construction Company, the construction operation of Lewis C. Bowers and Sons, Inc. which he also serves as a vice-president and director.

Mr. Roszel joined the Bowers organization in 1947 and most recently has been active in administration, sales, and obtaining planning and zoning approvals for various Bowers projects.

A lifelong Dutch Neck resident, he is a graduate of Trenton State. He was mayor of West Windsor from 1961 to 1970.

NEW QUARTERS SET

For Financial Firm.

Jack Halberstadt

Halberstadt Associates, a firm providing personal and business financial planning services, has relocated to new quarters at 195 Nassau Street.

The move came two years after the firm's initial move to Princeton. Jack Halberstadt, principal of the firm, describes himself as a generalist in the financial planning services field, with some 30 years of experience in handling such financial tools as savings, investments, insurance, employee benefits, retirement plans and tax shelters.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Kingston Presbyterian Church will hold a Bethel Pot Luck Banquet this Wednesday beginning at 6 at the Church. The "Banquet" is to celebrate the completion of the Old Testament study by more than 45 persons who have been attending Bethel Classes since the fall of 1982.

The program will feature the Bethel Players in the "Lion's Club Celebrity Roast: The Story of Daniel," starring Herschel and the lion's chorus. Persons interested in finding out about the Bethel Bible Series are welcome. New seminars in Old Testament and New Testament study will begin this fall.

The Bethel Bible Series is an adult Bible program developed in the late 1950s by a Lutheran pastor in Madison, Wis. The series is now used by over 5,000 churches. The non-denominational study appeals to churches interested in studying the Bible for an overview. The series is especially helpful in showing how the Old and New Testaments are related by common themes and concepts.

For more information, call the church office at 921-8895.

The Society for the Performing Arts of Trinity Cathedral will continue its 1983 concert series on Sunday at 3:30 with a recital by soprano Dorothy Pinot, who will be accompanied by her daughter, pianist Cynthia Chattin. A portion of the proceeds will be used for the Rev. John H. Ginter Memorial Scholarship Fund and other mission projects.

The donation is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The Rev. E. Rugby Auer, director of Trinity Counseling Service will return to Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, this Sunday to preach at the 9:15 and 11:15 services and to lead the Adult Forum in between those services. The focal point of the interior is a spacious and elegant living room (22'x15') with a 12' high ceiling. Rooms will be bright with natural light entering from a central skylight over an open stairwell and from an expanse of insulated glass windows on either end. Well proportioned rooms include a family room (22'x15'), dining room (13'x16') and a master bedroom (15'x16'). A special feature is the two fireplaces that are standard, one graces the living room and the other gives the family room a warm and welcoming ambience. Plans also provide for 2½ baths, central air conditioning, 2 decks and a private patio for entertaining and summer relaxation. A basement, 2 car garage, laundry on the bedroom level, dumbwaiter and your choice of formica or wood kitchen cabinets. Call Gilda K. Aronovic at 921-2776 to see our exciting plans for a very special community in Princeton Borough.

Trinity Church Celebrating 150th Anniversary With a Day-long Festival of Liturgical Arts

Trinity Church will be the scene of an all-day Liturgical Arts Festival on Saturday, April 23. The Festival is a first for Trinity, and for Princeton, and is part of Trinity's year-long 150th anniversary celebration.

The lawns, the nave, the chapels, parish hall, library and meeting rooms of the brownstone Gothic church at 33 Mercer Street will be the spaces where liturgical dancers, clowns, mimes, children's theatre, musicians, potters and painters will display work that to varying degrees combines art and religion.

CERAMIC FLUTE MASKS, such as these by Norman Lowry of the Drew University Music Department, will be on display at the Liturgical Arts Festival at Trinity Church on Saturday, April 23. They will also be "played"–if that is the right term–by members of the Drew University Consort in a performance of a composition by Mr. Lowry.

The theme chosen for the occasion is the parable of the wedding feast (Matthew 22), the story of the king who sends his servants into the streets to "gather all whom they found, both bad and good," to fill the wedding hall with guests after the first invitees fail to show up.

In a spirit of ecumenism, Trinity has asked area churches and synagogues, its own members, and artists who are not of any church but who nonetheless view their work as a holy or religious experience to participate. The public is welcome to what has been planned as a family occasion and spring festival. Admission is $1, and there will be events that will appeal to all ages during the day.

Beginning at 10 in the George Thomas Room, Valerie Meluskey, a Princeton dance therapist, will lead a dream and movement session interpreting Old Testament dreams, while Marianne Grey, a Princeton Art Museum docent, will give a slide presentation in Flemer Library on art that is based on the wedding feast parable.

In the Lady Chapel, the Altar Guild will be showing off Trinity's collection of early vestments, altar cloths, linens and silver. John Bertalot, Trinity's new organist and choir director imported from England, will demonstrate the workings of the Cassavant tracker organ at intervals during the morning.

Indoors and Out. Meanwhile, outside, Martha Wright will give a pottery demonstration called "Teabowls and Treasure Boxes," and Ruth Sanborn will lead a sacred dance and a Maypole dance. Sandy Maxwell will supply jazz and spring music on the piano, and clown college graduate Tom von Oehsen and a friend will be clowning around. The Youth Group has designed a logo for the Festival and will be making silk-screened T-shirts during the day.

Back indoors, landscape architect H. Russel Butler will talk about his design of the plantings around the church at 11, while Joanna Dorman, also an art museum docent, speaks on church architecture and the symbolism in the geometry of the Cross in another room. "Spirit and Form" is the topic of a talk by Juliana McIntyre, whose wooden sculptures will also be on view, and Catherine Breuer will speak on "Angels and Archangels," her hobby.

Agnes Forsyth will describe the spiritual community of the Taize international brotherhood, with special emphasis on the work of Brother Erik who illustrated the Taize Bible for children. Reed Armstrong will show slides of his liturgical sculpture in Spain and this country.

In a musical vein, Lucille Reilly will play trumpet voluntaries arranged for solo hammered dulcimer, her special instrument, and a work called "Inventing Voice," by Norman Lowry of the Drew University music department, will be performed by the Gamelon "Son of Lion" orchestra, using Indonesian gongs and bells and Mr. Lowry's ceramic flute masks.

At 2 p.m. Creative Theatre Unlimited will put on a children's improvisation entitled, "R.S.V.P." It will be based on the wedding feast parable and will focus on why the people didn't accept the king's invitation.

Gallery of Art. The parish hall will become a gallery showing paintings by Ande Lau Chen, Ken McIndoe, Carin Laughlin, Marsden Morse, Eileen Shahbender, Paul Matthews and Garnette Arledge; sculpture by Bradley Faus, Craig Wash, Jim Overman, Reed Armstrong and Juliana McIntyre; pottery by Connie Bracci McIndoe; vestments by John Sully; grave rubbings by Jim and Ruth Thornton; ceramic vessels by Ruth Cogan; design knitting by Patricia Wolf; and a handmade quilt from All Saints' Church.

The day will culminate in a participatory chancel drama in the church at 4 p.m. Henry Smith, a choreographer, dancer and director of Solaris, a New York company with close ties to native American and African traditions, will gather everyone for a procession into the church and then lead the dramatization. A service of Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 5:30, using the Sarum, or early Anglican rite, and afterward the Trinity bells will ring out from the tower, played by John Berlenbach.

The enthusiastic organizer of all this activity -- a sort of Art People Party for the church -- is Garnette Arledge. "This is a marvelous outpouring of the Holy Spirit," she exclaims, "where the creative impulse as caught in form can be celebrated and dedicated to the joy of the church. This Festival manifests the glorious beauty that the creative spirit can produce when it is dedicated to a higher source."

The Liturgical Arts Festival is also the activity of Trinity's 150th year celebrations in which the general public can wholeheartedly participate. The theme of the anniversary is "God's Temple is Holy, and that Temple You Are." According to Juliana McIntyre, chairman, the year-long anniversary observance has been very much a "process" which has involved a great many parishioners in different kinds of activities and which she hopes will lead to a deeper understanding of that theme.

History in Many Forms. There have been return visits by the three living former rectors and their staffs. A history

BORN YESTERDAY? WHO, ME? Billie Dawn, portrayed by Lynn Dorsey, confronts Harry Brock (Tom Mounier) in this scene from Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday." The comedy, in Theatre Intime's production, will play Murray Theatre this Thursday through Sunday and again Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 21-23.

News Of The THEATRES

'BORN YESTERDAY'

At Intime. Harry, the junkyard magnate who wants to buy and sell Senators to protect his version of Free Enterprise, will be on the Murray Theatre stage starting this week-end in Theatre Intime's production of the Garson Kanin comedy, "Born Yesterday."

Opening night will be this Thursday, April 14. The comedy will play nightly at 8 through Saturday, April 23. Murray Theatre is on the Princeton University campus.

Harry's entourage includes a drinking lawyer, a cousin named Eddie and, of course, Billie Dawn, his live-in lady friend, straight from the chorus line. Judy Holliday created the role on Broadway.

When Harry decides Billie is too dumb a blonde for the Washington, D.C. scene, he hires a young reporter to show her how it all works. It doesn't take long — approximately final curtain — for the two of them to toss Harry and his cronies into the Potomac.

Veronica Brady, of the McCarter Theatre staff, is directing. University students are in the cast. Reservations may be made at 452-8181.

'WOMAN NEXT DOOR'

She's At the Movies. Francois Truffaut's "The Woman Next Door" will be shown four times next Tuesday and Wednesday (7:30 and 9:30 each night) as McCarter moves along with its Movies-from-McCarter series. Screenings, as always, in Kresge auditorium on Washington Road.

In this one, we have Bernard, happily married to Arlette until new neighbors turn out to be Bernard's Triangle!

"Under the Influence." It's the 94th annual musical of Princeton University's Triangle Club, and it will be ready for opening night Thursday, April 28. It will play through May 1 and again June 3-4, all at McCarter Theatre.

An original revue, written, produced and performed by University undergraduates, "Under the Influence" is about "power, persuasion and politics," according to Triangle's advance man. You can buy your ticket now, at McCarter.

Stuart Ross, who did the New York production of "Not So New Faces '83," will direct. It's his first, for Triangle. Terry Rieser is choreographer and Debra Stein, costumer.

AND NEXT SEASON...

Shaw, O'Neill. But first, a new play by Joanna McClelland Glass called "Play Memory." Opening night of the '83-'84 season for McCarter Theatre will be Friday, October 7, and the play will run through October 23.

Directed by Harold Prince, "Play Memory" is a coproduction of McCarter Theatre and the Annenberg Center in Philadelphia. Set in the Canadian prairie, the play is about the Anglo-Scots who settled that part of the world. It's a story about a young woman who looks back — but not in anger.

written 60 years ago in 1923, will be McCarter's second play of the season, running from November 2 through 20. Nagle Jackson, McCarter's Artistic Director, will be the director. And of course, Mr. Jackson will continue from there to the annual production of "A Christmas Carol."

After the new year, McCarter will present Eugene O'Neill's only full length comedy, "Ah, Wilderness!", the story of a happy family and an understanding father seeing his son through a teen-age love affair. The play will run from January 18 to February 5 with a director to be announced.

The next play is the surprise. McCarter usually leaves an open slot for a "to be announced" work. It will, however, be a new play — either one that has been tried on other stages, or one that is completely fresh.

The fifth and final offering of the season will be Nagle Jackson's "At This Evening's Performance," produced earlier this season at 185 Nassau's theatre, and given a staged reading the previous season.

Mr. Jackson's play deals with performers in a small Eastern European satellite country who find themselves caught in political intrigue and subversion. The playwright will direct.

Want to see the revival of Rodgers' and Hart's "On Your Toes"?

McCarter Associates has bought a block of seats, and if you are an Associates "Donor" — that is, if you paid $30 or over to become a member — you're eligible to buy an "On Your Toes" ticket and a seat on the bus.

The date is next Tuesday evening's performance — April 19. The group will dine at the French country restaurant "Rene Pujol" before the show.

For reservations, call the Associates between 10 and 5, Monday through Friday, 452-6628.

'KING AND I'

By Mercer Musical Theatre. A single performance of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I" will be given this Sunday at 3 in the War Memorial Auditorium, Trenton. Mercer Musical Theatre is the producer. Reservations are available through 394-7514.

Mary Liz Ivins will play the hoop-skirted English governess, Anna Leonowens. Robert Parrish will be the King of Siam. Others in the cast are Deborah Maher, Wendy Yazujian, Michael Esposito, Jason Hotchkiss and Charlie Henderson.

Unique Group, Orpheus Chamber Orchestra, Presents Fresh and Vivid Concert at McCarter

In the eighth event of their 1982-83 season, Music-at-McCarter presented an outstanding performance by the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra. This conductorless ensemble of 26 top-notch musicians played a memorable concert on Monday night which included works by Haydn, and Brahms, and a piano concerto by Mozart. Paul Schenly was the guest pianist.

A unique and interesting feature of this group is the fact that they perform without a conductor. In addition, they follow no set seating arrangement in either the strings or the winds. These elements are due to the communal nature of the group, by which each performer contributes to its artistic and logistical decisions.

The fresh and vivid sound of this performance can be viewed as a direct result of this uniqueness. Nuances in dynamics and phrasing were worked out with great care and attention to detail, and the expressive components of the works were played as if they were being discovered anew by each performer.

Haydn's Symphony No. 44 in E minor was a superb vehicle for displaying these qualities. The first and last movements were played with a high level of energy and absolute precision. The canonic phrases of the ingenious Minuet were beautifully shaped as they maneuvered around each other. The long, flowing lines of the Adagio were given a feeling of mournful serenity. Through this sensitive performance, Haydn's compositional genius was permitted to emerge as the orchestra developed on the work's marvelous expressiveness.

Mismatched Combination. Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 23 in A major (K. 488) was performed by guest artist Paul Schenly in conjunction with the orchestra. To these ears this combination was mismatched. Schenly simply was not as polished and refined as the orchestra. The pianist had a tendency to push the tempos throughout the work, and some of the faster passages were not clearly defined. Although not distracting, the second movement in particular felt breathless and anxious, contrasting sharply with the relaxed sound of the orchestra.

Technically, Schenly's talents are firmly in place, and he functioned quite well in this capacity; however, the performance left one feeling as if his artistry has not yet been developed to the same degree. While his performance was good, it was not as good as that of the orchestra which accompanied him.

In closing the concert, the ensemble performed a delightful and youthful work by Brahms, his second Serenade in A major, Op. 16. This sweetly melodious work was rich in both harmony and texture, and its style of orchestration hinted toward Brahms' later symphonic works.

The winds figured prominently in the piece while the strings were largely reduced to a supporting role. Blend and balance were carefully crafted so that the strings were never pushed too far into the background.

Several movements were of special note. In the Scherzo, the rhythmic intricacies were handled with great skill and the dynamic force of the orchestra gave momentum to the movement. The Adagio was most beautiful, as the winds played over the silken texture of the strings playing in octaves. The final movement, Allegro, was replete with virtuosic solo flute, clarinet and oboe.

As good as this ensemble was when this writer first heard them in 1980, the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra has grown into an orchestra whose artistic merits are nothing short of extraordinary.

STERN TICKETS? YES

Some with Champagne. Remaining single tickets for Isaac Stern's May 12 recital at McCarter are now on sale at the box office.

In addition to the regular tickets at $20, $30 and $40, McCarter has a few Sponsor Tickets at $75 and $150. With these, the buyer will be admitted to the champagne reception with Mr. Stern following the recital. The reception will be held at "Albemarle," home of the American Boychoir. Information on these tickets may be obtained by calling McCarter Associates, 452-6122.

The violinist, accompanied by Andrew Wolf, will open his recital with Handel's Sonata in D, Op. 1, No. 13, followed by the Bartok Sonata No. 1. The program will also include Mozart's Sonata in G, K.301 and the Franck Sonata in A Major.

Mr. Stern's appearance — his first at McCarter in more than a decade — is the Associates' annual spring benefit.

ON OBOE

Holliger to Perform. Heinz Holliger will play from the oboe works of Mozart, Benjamin Britten, Poulenc, Saint-Saens and the contemporary Danish composer Carl Nielsen, when he appears at McCarter Monday at 8. He will also play his own "Study in Multiphonics" for solo oboe. Stage seats and standing room are all that remain.

The Mozart work will be a Sonata in B-flat (K.378) originally written for violin but often performed on the oboe in Mozart's own time. John Steele Ritter will be at the piano.

In addition, Mr. Holliger will play Britten's "Six Metamorphoses After Ovid," Opus 49 for solo oboe, Nielsen's Two Fantasy Pieces, Poulenc's Sonata for Oboe and Piano and the Saint-Saens Sonata for Oboe and Piano in D.

'MARRIAGE OF FIGARO' At Choir College. A fully staged production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will be presented by Westminster Choir College's Opera Theatre on April 13, 15, 17 and 19. The performances are at 8 in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus.

Glenn Parker, head of the Opera Department and the Westminster Opera Theatre, will conduct this student production. The stage director is David Gately who is present on campus for his fourth semester as a guest faculty member. Mr. Gately does work for the Paris Opera and Grand Houston Opera and is regarded by many as one of the most talented young stage directors in the country.

"The Marriage of Figaro" was written by Mozart in 1786 when the composer was 30 years old and is one of the oldest operas to remain in the standard opera repertoire. Set in 18th century Spain, this comic opera focuses on the relationship between a valet

STUDENTS FEATURED

In High School Concert. Princeton High School senior Stephen Billington, who performed the Hummel Trumpet Concerto in Boston and Atlantic City this winter with the Princeton High School Orchestra, will repeat the performance for Princetonians on Wednesday, April 20, at 8 in the PHS Auditorium.

The Haydn Cello Concerto will feature as soloist Judith Tsui, who studies at the Juilliard School of Music in New York. This will be her first performance of the work, which will be repeated on May 3 when the PHS Orchestra will present assemblies at each of the three elementary schools in Princeton.

Three student composers will have their works performed. Chris Sanderson's Elegy for Strings and Timpani, written "for Paul," will be performed by a group of advanced players. Next will be Stephen Billington's original Brass Quartet which starts out like a Bach Chorale, and then gradually disintegrates into atonality. There is a brief middle section which sounds faintly medieval, using parallel fifths, and then the piece gradually rebuilds itself harmonically and ends as it started.

Charles Sullivan's "Standard Deviation," completed earlier this month, will be performed by the full orchestra. It is polyphonic in texture and features tritonal relationships.

This spring, for the first time, the PHS intermediate level String Orchestra will perform one piece entirely on its own. Soloists in Corelli's Concerto Grosso Op. 6, No. 1 will be freshmen violinists Adrien Finzi, Tina von Mayrhauser, Ben Rosenthal, and Dan Froehlich.

The first movement of Haydn's "London" Symphony, No. 104, will be included, and the grand finale will be the March from Bizet's Carmen, performed by all of the combined orchestral classes.

The orchestral and composition programs at the high school are under the direction of Portia Sonnenfeld.

SOLOIST: Judith Tsui, a Princeton High School student, will perform the Haydn Cello Concerto with the Princeton High School orchestra in a concert Wednesday, April 20, at 8 in the high school auditorium.

BARITONE TO SING

At Woolworth. Baritone Barry Ellison will give a concert on Saturday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the Princeton University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free.

Mr Ellison will be accompanied by Marvin Keenze, pianist, in a program of works by Handel, Purcell, Brahms, Ravel, Wagner, Aaron Copland, John Jacob Niles and two arias by Guiseppe Verdi.

Barry Ellison

A graduate of the Westminster Choir College and the University of Michigan, Mr. Ellison has a busy schedule of oratorio and recital work, performing with various opera companies and teaching voice at Princeton University.

As winner of the Opera Company of Philadelphia-Luciano Pavarotti International Voice competition, Mr Ellison performed the role of Schaunard in "La Boheme" with Mr. Pavarotti last April and sang the same role with the Wilmington Opera Society. His latest role was that of Pasquale in the American premiere of Haydn's rediscovered masterpiece, "Orlando Paladino," with the Pennsylvania Opera Company.

Other operatic roles have included the lead in "Don Giovanni" and Count Almaviva in "The Marriage of Figaro," with the Princeton University Opera Theatre.

ACLU TO GAIN

From Concert Sunday. Baroque music for voice and instruments will be performed Sunday in a Spring Serenade for the benefit of the Mercer-Hunterdon Chapter, American Civil Liberties Union of New Jersey.

The concert will take place at 3 in All Saints' Church, Van Dyke and All Saints' Roads, and be followed by wine and refreshments. Performers will include Glenn Jacobson, harpsichord; Charles Forbes, cello; Jayn Rosenfeld, flute; and Eleanor Clark, soprano.

Tickets are $10 per person and $5 for senior citizens and students. Checks may be made out to ACLU of N.J. and sent to 204 West State Street, Trenton, 08618. Admission is also available at the door. For information call 599-4440.

PIANO RECITAL SET

By Competition Winner. Hei-ock Kim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nae-sup Kim of Lawrenceville, and a sophomore at Princeton Day School, will give a piano recital in the Herbert McAneny Theater on the school's campus on Friday, April 22, at 8.

Hei-ock Kim

As a junior student audition winner in a competition sponsored by The Philadelphia Orchestra, Miss Kim was a soloist with the Orchestra in its first junior student concert this past October.

Hei-ock began her piano studies 12 years ago at the age of three. In addition to being an honors student at PDS, she also attends the pre-college division of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. She has presented three recitals in the past three years and has appeared on the Trudy Haynes Show on KYW-TV. In 1981, she won first place in the Mark Gindhart Piano Competition and the New Jersey Talent Expo.

For two consecutive years, Hei-ock has won the Edward John Noble Scholarship Foundation Piano Competition, and this past spring she was awarded the New Jersey Governor's award in arts education.

The recital is open to the public with any donations received at the door benefitting the PDS Scholarship Fund.

CONCERT AT LIBRARY

To Honor Volunteers. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a concert of Baroque chamber music performed by the King George Pro Musica on Monday at 2. The program will honor the volunteers who have worked at the library; however, the public is invited.

This program is free. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

10TH CONCERT SET

By Two Choral Groups. The Princeton High School Women's Chorus, under the direction of William R. Trego and Nancianne Parrella, will perform in its 10th annual concert with the Men's Glee Club of Pingry School, directed by James Little.

This year the concert will be held in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, beginning at 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

The two choruses will begin the program by joining together to sing Franz Joseph Haydn's "Missa brevis St. Joannis de Deo." This work, known as the "Little Organ Mass" will be performed with orchestra under Mr. Trego's direction with Mr. Little playing the solo organ part.

Following this, the Women's Chorus will perform "Messe Basse" by Gabriel Faure, with organ accompaniment and two acappella selections by Orlando di Lasso: "Adoramus te, Christe" and "Echo Song."

The Pingry Men's Glee Club will perform "Agnus Dei" by H.L. Hassler; "Repleti Sunt" by Jacob Handl and "Ain't-a That Good News" arranged by William Dawson. The Button Downs, a small group of men chosen from the Glee Club, will also sing several motets.

After a brief intermission, the two choruses will join together again to present "Rejoice in the Lamb" by Benjamin Britten. Mr. Trego will conduct the combined choruses and Mr. Little will accompany on the organ.

The officers of the PHS Women's Chorus are Annemarie Brown, Linda Fresco, Dawn Gray, Antonia Rudenstine and Deborah Sams. They have organized dinner parties and a brief tour of Princeton following the concert.

performed chamber works will be heard. The first will be the Concerto for Trumpet, Oboe, Bassoon, Violins and Continuo by the relatively unknown Baroque composer Francesco Biscogli, with soloists James Tuozzolo, trumpet, Martha Helms, oboe, and Roe Goodman, bassoon.

Igor Stravinsky's "Ragtime," which was performed last October at the Little Orchestra's fund-raising party will be repeated, and the "Harlem Rag" of Tom Turpin, a friend of Scott Joplin, will be paired with it.

The Quartet in D Major for Flute, Viola, Cello and Harpsichord will add a more serious note, to be followed by a late romantic piece by the Russian composer Victor Ewald, the Symphony for Brass Quintet.

A total of 19 musicians will be heard in various combinations in the course of the program. The Little Orchestra of Princeton normally performs orchestral literature written for between 34 and 42 players. The orchestra was founded in 1980 by conductor Portia Sonnenfeld and a nucleus of musicians.

CONCERT SATURDAY

By Wind Ensemble. The Princeton University Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Michael Pratt, will present a concert on Saturday at 8:30 at Alexander Hall. Admission will be free.

The program will include brass choir pieces by Gabrieli and DeLassus. The entire ensemble will perform "Toccata Marziale" by Vaughan Williams, "Trauersinfonie" by Wagner, and "Hammersmith" and "Jupiter" from "The Planets," by Holst. There will be an intermission.

Michael Pratt, conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra, has conducted the Wind Ensemble for the past four years. Composed entirely of undergraduate and graduate students, the Wind Ensemble gives one concert a year. In addition, this year it has been asked to play at the dedication of the new Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor at The Plasma Physics Lab, Forrestal Campus, Princeton University, on May 5.

TWO CONCERTS PLANNED

By Glee Club. The Princeton University Glee Club will give two concerts in Alexander Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 14 and 15, at 8:30 to mark Prof. Walter Nollner's 25th anniversary as conductor of the group.

The program will begin with the "Missa Brevis" in G major by Johann Sebastian Bach, for chorus, four soloists and chamber orchestra. The soloists will include Andrea Matthews '78, whose most recent appearances have been in opera in Graz, Australia, and with the San Diego Opera Company; Mimmi Fulmer '74, alto, a voice teacher at Ithaca College and active in opera in New York State;

Also, Frank Hoffmeister, New York tenor who sang the role of the Evangelist in the Bach St. Matthew Passion with the Glee Club and Chapel Choir three years ago; and William Parker '65, bass, member of the New York City Center Opera Company and international concert singer. Miss Matthews, Miss Fulmer and Mr. Parker were members of the Glee Club during their undergraduate years at Princeton, and Mr. Parker sang the bass solo in the summer of 1965 at the Spoleto and Aix-en-Provence festivals during the Glee Club's first major tour.

The program will continue with the Schutz motet, "Komm, heiliger Geist," conducted by assistant conductor Isobel Woods. The six soloists will be current undergraduates.

Following intermission, the group will present the first Princeton performance in the original Russian of Igor Stravinsky's "Svadyebkah," (The Wedding), known primarily by its French name, "Les Noces." The same quartet of soloists as for the Bach will sing, and the accompaniment will be provided by four pianos and percussion. The pianists will include Douglas Dickson '83, recent soloist in the Stravinsky piano concerto with the Princeton University Symphony Orchestra, and graduate students Kenneth Hull and Isobel Woods.

Tickets are available by phoning 452-3048 on weekday mornings and at the Alexander Hall box office on the evenings of the performances.

CONTRALTO TO SING

With N.J. Symphony. The Canadian singer Maureen Forrester will be the guest soloist with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra on Saturday evening, April 16, at 8:30 in the Trenton War Memorial Auditorium. Roger Nierenberg, music director of the Pro Arte Chorale, will conduct.

The concert is the last in the Orchestra's current subscription series at the War Memorial. The program will consist of Weber's "Oberon Overture," Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer," and Prokofiev's "Alexander Nevsky" cantata. Miss Forrester will be heard in the Mahler, and both she and the Pro Arte Chorale will be featured in the Prokofiev work.

To reserve tickets and charge them by phone, call the box office at (201) 624-8203 or (800) 631-3407. Ticket prices are $16.50, $13.50, $11.50, and $9.50. Student and senior tickets are available at the door on the evening of the performance for $6.50.

Music lovers are invited to the Art People Place, 102 Witherspoon Street, on Thursday, April 14, at noon with a bag lunch to hear a pre-concert lecture by John Ellis, chairman of the music department at The Lawrenceville School. Mr. Ellis will use tapes, piano, and his own background to discuss the Mahler, Prokofiev and Weber works.

Coffee and tea will be available at 11:30. There is no admission charge, but donations are welcome for the Princeton Area Chapter of the NJSO League which sponsors these pre-concert lectures.

GUITARIST TO PLAY

At Choir College. Caroline Moseley, who teaches popular and folk guitar through the Westminster Choir College Conservatory Division, will give a concert of English and American songs in the folk idiom.

She will accompany herself on guitar and will be joined by John Macdonald, who will accompany her on guitar and mandolin. The concert is scheduled for Wednesday, April 20, at 8:30 in the lounge of Williamson Hall, at Westminster Choir College. Included in the program will be many traditional pieces plus contemporary songs and ballads. Some of the great tunes of Bob Dylan, Paul Simon, Joni Mitchell, and Lennon-McCartney will be performed.

The recital and all programs in the Conservatory Series are open to the public and free of charge. For further information, call 921-7104 or 924-6359.

FOLK SINGERS DUE: Lyn Hardy and Jay Ungar are a husband-wife team who will be featured with Molly Mason, bassist, guitarist and vocalist in a concert sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society on Friday at 8 at the YM-YWCA building on Paul Robeson Place. Admission is available at the door.

ALL-BRAHMS CONCERT

At Lawrenceville. The music department of The Lawrenceville School will present an all-Brahms program celebrating the sesquicentennial of the composer's birth on Wednesday, April 20. The program is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Edith Memorial Chapel on the school's campus.

The performers are cellist Norman Fischer of the Concord String Quartet and Dartmouth College; pianist Jeanne Fischer of Dartmouth; and Marilois Kierman, the organist at the Lawrenceville School.

Their program will include the cello-piano sonata in F Major, three organ chorale-preludes, four songs, and a new arrangement for organ and piano of the famous "Variations on a Theme" by Haydn ("Saint Antoni's Chorale").

Another feature will be Mr. Fischer's debut as a singer of art-songs. In addition to his work with the Concord String Quartet, he has given concerts at Rider College and is scheduled to appear at McCarter Theater next season. He has played a good many cello-piano concerts with his wife, and has appeared as guest conductor with the Dartmouth Symphony. During the past year he sang in two operas, Gian-Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and Mozart's "Cosi fan tutte."

At the Lawrenceville concert he will sing four Brahms lieder.

IT'S NEW To Us

SCANDINAVIAN CRAFTS Displayed at Nordicraft. The refreshing contemporary lines of Scandinavian hand crafts are beautifully displayed in Nordicraft's new shop now located at 246 Nassau Street. Handsome green and white ticking on the walls and a seafoam green carpet offset the shop's diverse artifacts which now include a line of antique furniture from Sweden as well as artisan crafts, handmade crystal, silver jewelry, and woolens from the north countries.

SCANDINAVIAN ANTIQUES: Mrs. Monica Amestam has recently joined the three other Swedish owners of Nordicraft which has moved to an attractive new location at 246 Nassau Street. She has brought a handsome line of Swedish country antiques made of natural pine to the shop's excellent collection of crafts from the north countries.

Mrs. Anne-Marie Woodrow and her three partners, Mrs. Berit Marshall, Mrs. Monica Anestam, and Mrs. Elsa Granade, all natives of Sweden, are thrilled with their new location in Princeton. Not only is it more visible, being a bit further "uptown," but far more spacious as well. A small staircase leads one downstairs to a roomful of gorgeous woolens for knotting where a weekly workshop will be held in the near future.

More than 40 brilliant colors of yarns in an acrylic mixture washes well and will make cool sweaters for babies or ladies this spring. Baby yarns are found here in soft pastels or a bright red or blue. A super-thin Danish yarn which comes in seven colors is ideal for the knitter who prefers big needles so the work goes quickly as in knitting a lovely shawl on display in the shop. The Pingouin French mohair and wool yarns are favorites at the shop, where knitters meet to receive advice and assistance on their knitting projects. A particularly elegant silk and wool yarn in rose, black, white and a few other shades will soon be in stock.

Mrs. Anestam has recently joined Mrs. Woodrow at Nordicraft, which has been acquainting Princeton residents with the fine artisan crafts of Scandinavia for the past 12 years. Before moving to the United States, Mrs. Anestam spent many years in Sweden in the art and antique business, which is why we are now so fortunate to see fine quality country antiques in natural pine right here in town.

Country Furniture. "We think that this is a very desirable line of furniture. There is a renewed interest in primitive country pieces. We are getting away from the more formal dark wood antiques and the demand for natural woods is increasing," explains Mrs. Anestam, who has a bookful of color pictures of pieces available in Sweden. The choices are varied and the simple lines of the furniture will blend in with almost any decor.

The country pine antiques from the turn of the century or the late 1800s include an exquisite corner cabinet, a washstand, a butter churner, a baby cradle, a handsome secretary, buffets, chests, and tiny cupboards to hang on the wall. An 1800 style sofa trimmed in handcarved natural pine and upholstered in a textured white cotton pulls out to make a double size bed. Collectors might enjoy seeing one of the antique spinning wheels on display in the shop's window. A reproduction of an old yarn box accompanies the spinning wheel and would double nicely as a magazine holder.

Many of us associate the Scandinavian craftspeople as leaders in the most advanced contemporary designs. Their work is usually utilitarian as well as beautiful as are the birch plates and platters from Finland which come in five sizes. When treated with mineral oil, they can be used for serving all kinds of foods, ideal for wedding gifts.

Mindful of the cost of fresh flowers, Nordicraft has wisely ordered a large shipment of silk wild flowers from Sweden to adorn the home. The famous vases by Kosta Boda or the unique baskets from Finland made of pine shavings will make stunning containers for the flowers. The baskets come in most unusual shapes and darken with age.

Small Gifts. There are many small gift items which will please the giver such as the handcrafted dolls and thatched huts from the island of Gotland, the latter replicas of those used there to keep babies out of the hot sun.

"The wine of the house" is inscribed on a $26 wine carafe made by Kosta Boda. These and the numerous styles of pitchers, bowls, and platters will make thoughtful wedding gifts this spring.

Young and old alike will delight in Nordicraft's collection of teddy bears including the life-size version handmade in Maine. Stuffed wool sheep in white, grey and black also from Maine have been big sellers at the shop all year. Furry folk puppets are so lifelike one might think a pet animal bear cub is in the shop and for those who are old enough to remember the Cinnamon Bear radio series, he has returned and can be found watching over the shop's display of ceramic ducks and chickens from Sweden.

Hostesses will be happy to hear that Nordicraft has a 25-color selection of cocktail and luncheon size napkins with candles to match for entertaining. The new Nordicraft welcomes all to stop in and browse.

Handcraft embroidery kits from the Danish Handcraft Guild are a great feature at Nordicraft, the only store where they are sold. The flower thread, a cotton floss, made by the same group is also available there.

Georgian entryways in that city, Mr. Charles Huebner owner of the Door Center, has made the poster a truly Princeton project.

The handsome color photographs of 24 doorways in Princeton such as those of Trinity Church, the Nassau Inn, Drumthwacket, Bainbridge House, and many of the University's eating clubs, to mention a few, are credited to the fine work of Mrs. Tim Mattock and Josh Raymond. The graphics was done by artist Miss Fairfax Hutter. This joint effort at $10 has met with great success in town, where it is sold in many shops.

"For me, a drive through this town is like a walk through an art gallery. It is a gallery of doors created by many unheralded artists and craftsmen who have made statements which will forever echo the history and feelings of their times," muses Mr. Huebner. In his opinion, a doorway to a building or a home can make a strong first impression, revealing much about its occupants even before entering.

Now that spring has come it might be wise to reflect on one's own front door not just from the aesthetic point of view, but for practical reasons as well. The Rocky Hill Door Center is expert in the sale and installation of handsome interior and exterior wooden doors, armaclad storm and screen doors, designer series doors, as well as shutters, thermal glass doors, and roof windows.

Patio Doors. When the rains let up, homeowners will soon be carrying out patio furniture and cushions anticipating the pleasureful months ahead. The Door Center has a fine selection of patio doors if yours need an uplift after the wet winter weather. A skylight in the roof of a porch will bring more sunshine into that room and its adjoining living room or library all year.

While security is a necessary evil everywhere in the home, it does not have to be unattractive. The Door Center, which will come to the home and give free estimates concerning security or lack of same, as well as advise on energy conservation, specializes in door lock and window installation.

PRINCETON DOORS: The colorful new poster, "The Doorways of Princeton," published by the Rocky Hill Door Center is displayed here by the shop owner's mother, Mrs. Louise Huebner. The shop is busy selling and replacing doors, windows, shutters, skylights and patio doors and sliding screens in preparation for the homeowner's spring clean up.

Their fine brass lock, mostly made by the Baldwin company, are decorative yet safe and durable. The solid forged brass and steel construction of the narrow backset lock originally designed in France is carefully engineered to withstand leverage and torque. The tamper-resistant armored front plate insures security because the lock cylinders have a five or six pin tumbler operation. Many of the models of backset locks with a deadbolt made by Baldwin are on display at the Door Center located in the Village Shopper in Rocky Hill. The stylish exterior lock designs can be carried out throughout the home's interior.

Unwanted night visitors are often said to come through a window, so it might be good to check the window locks in your home or think about replacing old windows in favor of the trim new thermal ones seen in the shop. Andersen and Marvin casement and double hung windows and awnings will add a new fresh look to the home and minimize its upkeep while enhancing security.

Leaded Glass. A return to the handsome leaded glass door popular at the turn of the century is seen now at the Door Center, where a fine assortment of handcarved wooden doors with colorful Tiffany-style glass can be viewed. Beveled glass panes etched with a delicate design tracery, the original Chantilly style in stained glass, or the Victorian motif typified by a fanlight over the entry offset by handsome panels are among the selections made by Simpson.

Solid hardwood doors in mahogany and oak or the insulated steel replacement doors which look just like wood are good considerations. Mr. Huebner has lately seen a great interest in French doors which change the whole appearance of an entryway.

If you are tired of the upkeep of wooden shutters, go to the Door Center to see the handsome Cellwood shutters, molded in natural woodgrain and which "defy warping, dry rot and mildew." The panels and louvers, which come in five colors, are molded so they cannot split, loosen, or fall out. Next year, the weary homeowner can spend the spring weeks planting flowers instead of painting shutters!

CELEBRATE THE AUTO

At Squibb Exhibit. It's a wide track view, says Squibb, of the power, sleekness and pure fun of the automobile. "Free Wheeling," described as "an artistic celebration of the automobile," will be on view through May 16 at Squibb's gallery on the Lawrenceville Road. Hours are 9-5 week days; until 9 p.m. Thursdays and from 1 to 5, week-ends.

The oldest works in the show are Ernest Montaut's hand-colored lithographs dating from the early 1900s. One of the newest is by William Motta, contemporary American artist. Other artists represented are Walter Gotschke, early German classicist, and Peter Helck who is regarded by many as having been America's leading automobile illustrator for the past 40 years.

Art styles in the exhibit range from impressionism to photo realism. Paintings and photographs portray both the historic and the avant-garde. There is a paper sculpture of a rear-view mirror, a painted mahogany rendering of a crunched fender, a detailed cutaway drawing of an Alfa-Romeo and an historic painting of the 1908 New York-to-Paris race.

... AND PRINTS

With "Rape of Sabines." Approximately 100 drawings from 16th to 18th-century France are on view in the Princeton University Art Museum in conjunction with the exhibit of Nicolas Poussin's "Rape of the Sabines," on loan from the Louvre.

The drawings, from the museum's permanent collection, have been assembled to draw attention to the extent of the museum's holdings from this period, and the results of recent research. The exhibition will remain through June 12.

Included are finished presentation pieces, studies for larger works, sketches for engravings and illustrations and copies after old masters, produced by artists whose range in time extends from the late 16th century to Jacques-Louis David, in the late 18th and early 19th century.

PAINTINGS ON VIEW

By Morse, Corboy. "Landscapes and Flowers," a collection of oils by Marsden Morse, are on view in the Western Electric Corporate Education Center, Carter Road. They will remain through April 29. A group of oils by Ms. Morse is also on view through April 29 at The Aquinas Institute, 65 Stockton St.

Watercolors and pastels by Rocky Hill artist Terri Corboy are in the Lobby Gallery of the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center, Route 206, Lawrenceville. They will remain through April 22.

PORTRAIT OF MERCEDES: The Mercedes SSK, seen through reflections in back of the car's headlight, is portrayed by William Motta in one of the art works at Squibb. "Free Wheeling", on view through May 16, is a celebration of the automobile as art.

FESTIVAL, AT PEDDIE

Art, Music. From April 18 through 22, The Peddie School in Hightstown will hold a Spring Arts Festival. The public is invited to attend.

Printmaker Stefan Martin will exhibit in the North Gallery of the Annenberg Library through April 24. Next Monday, from 10 to 2, potter Connie Bracci-McIndoe will demonstrate throwing techniques, and show her pottery and sculpture. Her exhibit will be in the foyer of Memorial Hall.

Other events include a concert by music groups of the school next Monday at 7:30 p.m.; mime on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.; an illustrated lecture on Mexico and Central America Thursday, April 21 at 7:15 p.m.; Dixieland music the same night at 8:15 and, to conclude the week on Friday, April 22 at 8, a one-man presentation by Frank F. Fowle based on The Iliad.

AT GEORGE SCHOOL

Princeton Artist. Jane Teller, Princeton artist whose four sons are all graduates of George School in Newtown, Pennsylvania, will be featured in an art show at the school during the month of April.

Over the last 20 years, Mrs. Teller has exhibited in over 50 solo and group shows in the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum of Art, the Newark Museum, Rutgers, the Gallerie Claude Bernard in Paris and the American Embassy in Tokyo.

Her works are in collections at Firestone Library of Princeton University, the New Jersey State Museum and the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

The George School exhibit is open every weekday between 9 and 5. Those who wish to see the exhibit on week-ends should call 215-969-3811 during the week to make an appointment.

AFTER 40 YEARS

Retrospective Planned. A 40-year retrospective of the work of George Greene will be on view at Art Masters of Princeton, 44 Spring Street, from May 13 to 31. An opening reception will be held Friday, May 13 from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The exhibit will include five plexiglas constructions, 14 paintings and collages on canvas, 15 ink drawings and paper collages, five sculptures and several maquettes for sculpture projects.

One of the first artists to use plastics as a medium, Mr. Greene exhibited in 1949 at the Addison Gallery, Andover, Massachusetts, in the first show of plastics in the United States. One of his plexiglas constructions is now at the Guggenheim. He has also exhibited at the Franz Bader Gallery in Washington, D.C. and the Bodley Gallery in New York City.

Lacrosse Team, in pursuit of Cornell, Faces Penn and Brown; Baseball To Host Harvard and Dartmouth, Crew Here Again

Although the very best of the University's spring sports teams will be traveling this weekend, most of the others will compete at home in what could be — weather permitting — the first full weekend of spring sports at Princeton.

The lacrosse team, which drubbed Yale, 13-8, in its first Ivy League match last weekend, faces Penn this Wednesday at Franklin Field and then hosts Brown Saturday at 2 on Finney Field. Gerry Ronan and David Chang scored three goals each against Yale, while Charlie Stillwell registered four assists, in addition to scoring a goal.

Last year Princeton whipped both Penn and Brown enroute to a showdown with perennial champion Cornell for the Ivy title. Coach Jerry Schmidt expects tougher games this year, particularly against the Quakers, who are ranked in the top 10 nationally this year.

ANCHORS AWEIGH: Navy's varsity heavyweight crew (in dark shirts) was better suited to the choppy waters and strong headwind on Carnegie Lake Saturday morning, defeating Princeton by 5.3 seconds over the 2,000-meter course. Tigers will row against Columbia and Penn on Carnegie Saturday afternoon. (Wickney G. Pinrod photo)

SPORTS In Princeton

The Orange and Blac' baseball team, often described as in a rebuilding process, seems to be spending a considerable amount of time in the cellar. The Tigers nipped Rutgers, 7-6, last week, and then fell twice to Yale, 9-5, and 6-5. The doubleheader with Brown, postponed to Monday, because of Sunday's rain, had a better outcome for the Tigers. They won the first game, 12-10, and the second ended in a 3-3 tie, called because of darkness.

Dan Arendas smacked a home run in each contest, as well as pitching for Princeton in the nightcap. He gave up just three hits. Tom Kates had a big first game with a double and a homer as Scott LaForest notched the victory. Princeton record is now 5-12-2.

Coach Tom O'Connell's crew may be able to start from the ground floor this weekend with doubleheaders against Harvard and Dartmouth on Saturday and Sunday, each beginning at 1 on Clarke Field.

Track Team Rolls. Princeton's track team, which has quietly re-established itself as the dominant Ivy League team, will host Yale Saturday at Palmer Stadium, starting time: 1 p.m.

The Tigers, last year's IC4A champions outdoors, were upset by Penn, 81-55, in an indoor meet earlier this year. Two weeks ago the Quakers returned to Palmer Stadium and Princeton — at full strength after being hampered by several injuries during the winter — and drubbed Penn, 101-67. Last weekend Coach Larry Ellis's team won again, defeating Army at West Point, 94-69.

Princeton's heavyweight rowers, losers but still encouraged by their effort against Navy last Saturday on Carnegie Lake, return to those waters this Saturday to face Columbia and Penn. Penn, rowing in its first regatta of the spring, is the unknwon quantity. Races should begin shortly after 3 p.m.

Although the Tigers fell to the Midshipmen by 5.3 seconds, Coach Larry Gluckman was impressed by his crew's surge in the final quarter of the race. "Princeton closed about 4.5 seconds in the last 500 meters," said Gluckman. "Being that far behind it would have been easy to fall down."

Gluckman added that the Princeton boat, averaging only about 182 pounds, suffered a disadvantage rowing into the strong headwind against the heavier Navy crew. Still, the margin of defeat was not nearly as great as it was a year ago against Navy. "We're two weeks ahead of schedule," said Gluckman. "By the Sprints (May 15 in Worcester, Mass.) we'll be a better crew."

"This boat is potentially faster," says Kilpatrick, when asked to compare it to the Henley crew. "In 1981 most of them were sophomores. Now they are seniors and there is a lot more maturity. They're really well drilled."

The status of one of those seniors, stroke John Chamberlain, had been in doubt. But earlier this year the ECAC

Lightweight Crew Cruises. This past weekend the fastest Princeton boat on the lake was not the varsity heavyweights' but rather the lightweights'. Coach Gary Kilpatrick's varsity light, which includes six men from the team that competed in Henley, England, in 1981 cruised to a 16½-second victory over Navy. The lightweights' time of 6:25.3 was only two seconds off the mark of the Navy heavyweight boat.

ruled that the time Chamberlain spent training for the 1980 Olympic bicycling team would not count against his inter-collegiate eligibility, thus making him available for one more year of crew.

The first major test for the lightweights will not come this Saturday, when they travel to Ithaca to face Cornell and Rutgers, or next week, facing Penn on the Schulkyll. The big race will be Saturday, April 30, when Harvard and Yale gather on Carnegie. "It will be the best three crews in the nation, racing head to head," says Kilpatrick, whose crews have never defeated Harvard at home. "It will be a showdown."

PHS IS EASY WINNER

In First Track Meet. Although not expected to dominate the Mercer County scene like it has the previous two years, the Princeton High School track team nevertheless looked impressive last week in posting an 80-51 victory over Hamilton in its first dual meet of the season.

The Little Tigers will resume this Wednesday after an eight-day break when it opposes Hopewell Valley High School in Pennington.

Eddie Rice, the fleet tailback on the football team, led the assault against Hamilton, winning three events. Rice captured the 200 meter dash in 24.3 seconds (teammate Jim Moice was third in 25.2) and led a PHS sweep in the high jump with a leap of 5-8. Mike Schwab was second in the high jump, also with a mark of 5-8, while Tim Howard was third with 5-6.

Rice uncorked a winning jump of 20-3½ in the long jump, almost two-feet farther than the second-place effort of 18-4.

As expected, Princeton's outstanding shot putter, P.J., Young easily won that event with a winning put of 52-11¾ — more than eight feet longer than the second-place mark of 44-10¾ — and doubled in the discus, capturing that event with a toss of 142-11.

In other field events, Eric Rapp finished second in the javelin, but Hamilton swept the pole vault and took a second and third in the discus.

PHS Dominated the Races. Stephan Fletcher led a PHS sweep in the 100 meter dash, while Bill Bushnell, who has been competing in invitational meets during the winter along with Fletcher, led another Little Tiger sweep in the 1,600 meter run. Bushnell's time was 4:40.

Mike Schwab won the 400 meter in 53.2 and the 800 meter in 2:03.0, besting teammate Tom Perkins in the latter. Perkins was clocked in 2:11.0.

The 3,200 meter run fell to Princeton's Peter Kellogg in 11:01.2, and PHS also won the 1,600 meter relay.

The 3,200 meter run fell to Princeton's Peter Kellogg and PHS also won the 1,600 meter relay with a clocking of 3:41.

Depth A Concern. PHS coach Marc Anderson, while conceding that PHS has back from last year such standout performers as Fletcher, Bushnell, Young and Ken McKellar, is concerned about a lack of team depth that carried PHS to its impressive record over the last two years.

Observed Anderson, "We have a few stars. But we don't have that many outstanding athletes to pull us through."

PHS, PHOX ROUTED

In Baseball Opener. The opening game with Hamilton last week isn't what Princeton High baseball coach Ed Beacham had in mind when he said it was important for his team to get off to a fast start.

Hamilton raked three Little Tiger pitchers for 17 hits in routing PHS, 16-7. "We got our ears boxed," agreed PHS coach Ed Beacham, who was making his debut as head coach. "Hamilton is a fine-hitting team. They hit the ball from the opening inning and never stopped."

Weather permitting, the Little Tigers will play seven games over the next two weeks. They will entertain Notre Dame Thursday at 3:34, travel to Trenton High the following afternoon, oppose rival Hun School Saturday at 2:30 at Hun and then play host to Lawrence High in a league game Monday in a burst of activity.

"We should know by next Thursday what kind of a team we have," said Beacham. "If we're 5-2 by then, I'll be pretty happy."

For Beacham, who said at the start of the season that it was important for his team to get off to a fast start, the result of the Hamilton game was not what he had in mind. "We scored seven runs," he pointed out. "If we score seven runs in every game, we're going to win a lot of games."

But how the Hornets could hit, Beacham said later that after the carnage was over, he figured that Hamilton had a team batting average of .555.

The blood-letting started early. PHS starter Terry Phox got two out in the first but then he gave up a single and a triple. "He just sort of folded," commented Beacham. Before reliefer John Sherin got the third out, Hamilton had scored six runs.

"When you're six runs behind you can't do a lot of things," observed Beacham. "You can't steal, you can't bunt as in normal situations. You don't have those options."

Hamilton added two more in the second to make it 8-0 before PHS pushed two runs across in its half of the second. But nothing could silence the Hornet bats this day. They ripped Sherin for six runs in the fifth inning and came back to plate three more off second reliefer Matt Tamasi in the seventh.

For PHS, catcher Ralph Carnevale had two of Princeton's seven hits. Chris Hoover, Dino D'Angelo, Phox, Drew Bienkowski and O'Grady also hit safely, the latter stroking a double for Princeton's lone extra base hit.

Princeton's only edge came in defense where it was guilty of two errors while the Hornets were committing six. The game was the first of the season for both teams.

OPENER WEDNESDAY

For Hun Lacrosse Team. After participating in the George School Tournament last week, the Hun School will open its regular season this Wednesday when it will entertain Montclair Kimberly at 3:45.

Two days later on Friday, Hun will host Bridgewater East High School. "We're going to have our hands full with Bridgewater," commented first-year coach Dave Faus. "Bridgewater is a large school and they have a lot of kids out."

Hun played three games in the George School tournament and lost all three. In its opening game, it was edged by George School, 3-2, and then came back to lose another one-goal decision to Blair Academy, 5-4.

In its final game, Hun lost to Academy of New Church, 4-2, when the victors scored three goals in the final period. ANC won the tournament by also defeating Blair, 9-1, and George School, 13-2. Hun lost all three games in the final period.

"It's not quite as bad as it looks," commented Faus. "Obviously, I'm not as pleased as if we would have won, but nobody blew us out and at the same time we were able to hold our own. With a few adjustments, I think we'll be ready for our opener with Montclair."

Against George School, sophomore Chris Goodyear, a transfer student from Princeton High, scored two of Hun's three goals. "He's a great stick handler," said Faus. Goodyear plays crease attack.

Dave Zimmer added a goal and an assist for Hun. All games in the tournament were abbreviated 10-minute running quarters, Faus reported.

Goodyear scored two more goals in the loss to Blair while Zimmer and Greg Secrest each added a goal and an assist. Blair scored the winning goal with 1:50 left to play. Observed Faus, "It really was a sloppy game; we let down from the loss to George School."

Chris Black scored on assist from Secrest in the loss to ANC and Zimmer scored again for Hun. With five assists in the three games, Secrest, observed Faus, performed well the role of playmaker in each.

Despite the three losses, Faus stressed that the tournament provided his team with some needed experience. Previously, because of such poor weather conditions and Easter vacation, his squad had been able to get in only four days of practice.

"We have a good idea of where we are and where we have to go," summed up Faus.

HUN NINE ALL EVEN

Three Games Next Week. A 5-4 victory over West Windsor last week enabled the Hun School baseball team to even its record at 1-1.

That was far as the Raiders got. The weather erased games with Hopewell Valley and Montclair-Kimberly. With Hun scheduled to play an average of three to four games a week, the postponements are going to raise hob with the schedule. "All the schools are in trouble," observed Hun coach Bill McQuade. "It's going to be tough later in the year."

Hun will play host to Peddie on Friday at 3:45 and will be at Lawrenceville School on Tuesday. In between, the Raiders added a new contest to the schedule — a Saturday game with town rival Princeton High. The game will be played at the Hun diamond.

Against West Windsor, Hun scored the winning run in the fourth inning when Martin Sumners singled, stole second and advanced to third on Chris Hunninghake's infield safety. With two down, Hun then engineered a double steal, Sumners crossing the plate before the Pirates were able to put the tag on Hunninghake.

Pete Stam went the distance for Hun, giving up six hits — Hun had seven — striking out two and walking one. "It was a normal game for Pete," said McQuade.

McQuade added that the Raiders played a good defensive game behind Stam all the way. "We had three errors but they were not costly, which is normally the case," observed McQuade.

Hunninghake and Pintella, the two leading hitters on the club last year, each had two hits to pace Hun at the plate.

Hun scored three in the first to take an early lead. Pintella singled, was forced at second, but Rich Stout and Hunninghake followed with singles to drive in the game's first run. A walk to Dean Forman, a fielder's choice and a Pirate error led to two more runs.

After West Windsor pushed one run across in the second, Hun also scored one in the same inning when Stam walked, Pintella singled and Sumners was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases. Stout was walked to force in Hun's fourth run.

West Windsor plated two more runs in the third and tied it at 4 with another run in the fourth before Hun scored the winning run. There was no scoring in the final three innings.

Stam got the win — his first — while WW senior Todd Hillpot, who was 4-6 for the Pirates last year, took the loss.

HOW GOOD IS PHS?

Columbia To Test Stickmen. For new coach Peter Larsen, the lacrosse season for Princeton High begins this Wednesday afternoon at 4 when PHS will entertain a strong Columbia team.

"From a couple of coaches I've talked to they say I'm crazy to think we can stay on the same field with them. They're that good." But Larsen is not about to back down from any challenge. "We're going out with the idea of beating them," he said.

The Little Tigers have not had too much activity yet this season. Saturday's scheduled game with Westfield was a victim of the weather and the opener with Rutgers Prep last week, first billed as a scrimmage and then described as a bona fide game, has been downgraded again by Larsen.

PHS won the contest easily, 14-3. "We looked real well," said Larsen, "but it was not much of a game; it was more like a scrimmage. It was not a full time game so to speak."

Larsen was pleased with two aspects of the Little Tigers's performance: its ball movement and defensive play.

"We moved the ball around very well," he said. Particularly in the second period, when the Little Tigers had 15 shots on goal and turned the game around. On defense, Larsen cited the play of Peter Gager, Norman Calloway and George Fox.

Goalie Alex Taft, making his debut in front of the net, was tested only 10 times. He stopped seven. "It's taking a little time but he's coming along," said Larsen.

PHOX IS INVITED

To Participate in Classic. Terry Phox, a standout player for the Princeton High School basketball team the past three years, has been invited to participate in the Joint Effort Colorado Seniors Basketball Classic which will be held Saturday at Montebello High School in Denver.

The PHS senior, who also excels in football and baseball, will join 29 other outstanding players from Colorado in the tournament.

Joint Effort was originally started in Princeton and Terry was one of its charter members. It is a youth devclopment organization which provides cultural and recreational activities for young people. Today there are five Joint Effort groups in the country.

John Bailey, a former Princeton resident and fine basketball player himself and one of the organizers of the Classic, commented of Phox, "He's earned it. He's got the coaches out here interested in him and I can't think of a better honor."

Clearance for Phox to play in the tournament was obtained from NCAA officials, Mr. Bailey said.

HUN ONE HIT VICTIM

To Hamilton. Maybe Hun baseball coach Bill McQuade should have prayed for one more day of rain.

Trinity Festival

of Trinity Church has been published in pamphlet form and may be expanded into a book. Oral history is being collected in the form of taped interviews with the former rectors and staff and with members whose memories are long.

Dramatized history of the church has been offered in humorous form in an evening cabaret by and for members of the parish. A more serious improvised play that will illustrate the changes in the church will be give in the fall. Memorabilia and photographs have been collected and organized as proper parish archives and much of this material will be on display from May 8 - 29th in the parish hall. Trinity's actual birthday date is May 11.

A Liturgical Arts Festival is common in England, Mrs. McIntyre says, and has also been done in New York City at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. But it is something new for Trinity, and for Princeton, and she is not quite sure what to expect -- or how many. There will be lunch, but that, she says with a twinkle, may parallel another parable -- the loaves and the fishes.

His Raiders were deluged with a rain of Hamilton hits Monday as the Hornets pounded Hun, 17-1, clubbing four Hun pitchers in the process. In contrast, Hamilton hurler Steve White was virtually untouchable, as he mowed down Hun with one hit.

"Super Steve," as he is known by his teammates, struck out 12 Hun batters, five of the first 10 he faced. The lone Raider to solve White was Marty Sumners who singled off White in the fourth. He struck out at least one Hun batter an inning and issued his only walk with two outs in the seventh.

Hamilton turned the game into a rout when it scored 10 runs in the second inning off starter Rich Stout. Fred Langevin had three hits in three at bats for Hamilton and batted in four runs. Teammate Jeff Dougherty rapped two hits, scored twice and drove in five runs.

Stout took the loss, his second without a win. Hun's record dipped to 1-2, while Hamilton is now 2-0.

ND TO TEST PHS

In Girls Softball. The Princeton High School softball team, which lost its opening game to Nottingham last week, will entertain Notre Dame Thursday at 3:45. Notre Dame and McCorristin are being touted as the teams to beat this year in the Colonial Valley Conference league. Hightstown is the defending champion.

On Monday, PHS will play host to Lawrence in another CVC contest.

New coach Doug Snyder has no illusions about the outlook for the Little Tigers this season. The past record is dismal: PHS has not won a game the previous two years.

"This year we'll be lucky to win one or two games," admitted Snyder. "The way I look at it, I'm going to try to teach some fundamentals and maybe not this year but in a couple of years it will pay off. It won't happen overnight."

To teach and maintain discipline but at the same time to have some fun, is his goal, Snyder said. "When it's no longer fun, that's the time to get out."

In the first couple of weeks of practice — severely restricted because of the wet weather — Snyder had to handle his 30-member squad by himself. Now he has an assitant, Nancy Pesce, and has been able to split the team into varsity and jayvee squads.

A former standout athlete at PHS in three sports, including softball, Pesce is currently attending Trenton State College. "She's helped out tremendously," said Snyder. "A lot of girls are getting a lot of work now."

PHS Takes Lead. Against Nottingham last week, PHS jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning when freshman rightfielder Tomi Morton tripled home a pair of runs and scored on an error. "The girls were shocked; I think it was the first time in two years we had a lead," said Snyder.

PHS couldn't hold it, however. The North Stars, which won their first game ever, reached PHS pitcher Marcy Murray for four runs in the fourth inning and went on to post a 10-3 victory.

Murray is Snyder's pitcher. A sophomore, Murray is getting used to throwing the ball a little harder, Snyder reported. "She's a little green yet but she is coming around."

Catching for Murray is junior Monica Greenland, whom Snyder describes as a "good steady influence. She has a strong arm."

At first is senior Elena Lucullo, starting her fourth year on the team. Junior Martha Gilham is at second base and a junior up from the jayvee team, Diana Schmidt, is at short. "A nice surprise. She has a nice glove," said Snyder of Schmidt.

Sue Hendrickson, the team's leading hitter, is at third. Patrolling the outfield with Morton are sophomore Annie Heard in left and veteran Cora Sloan in center.

A senior, Sloan was one of the stars on last year's team which was coached by Marvin Trotman.

REGISTRATION NEAR

For Youth Baseball League. The Princeton Youth Baseball League will hold registration for its 8-10 year old league and 11-12 year old league next Sunday, the 24th, and on Saturday, the 30th, from noon to 2:30 at the Community Park ball fields. Those interested should bring a baseball glove and a photo copy of their birth certificate. There is a $15 fee for the season.

The regular 12-game schedule will begin May 23 and continue through July 7. All games will be played at the Community Park fields on Monday and Thursday evenings, starting at 6.

For more information, call Doug Davis at 921-2362 or Clark Lennon at 924-7242.

CYCLISTS EXCEL

In Two Weekend Races. Princeton cyclists of the Century Riding Club performed well in races held during the weekend.

Matt Willis finished second in the junior 12-mile race held at Drew University in Madison, while the team of David Lafleur, Nils Dennis and Scott Hodder, captured second, fifth and sixth places in the senior 50 kilometer race promoted by the Somerville Recreation Department at Jockey Hollow.

TWO TO COMPETE

In YMCA Nationals. Two swimmers from the Princeton YMCA Swim Team coached by Loraine Wood have qualified to compete in the YMCA Nationals to be held in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. from April 20 - 23.

Libby Bolster, age 18, will be competing in the 100 yard free with her time of 56.91, while Whitney Barringer, age 17, will swim three events -- the 100 Back (57.63), the 200 Back (2:11.55), and the 200 IM (2:04.90).

By establishing these times, Whitney not only broke the Princeton Swim Team's records, but his 100 Back time makes him eligible for placing among the YMCA top 25 times in the country. The final rankings will be announced in September.

Another Princeton swimmer, Danny Tapiero is also eligible for the nation's top 25 in the 13-14 50 Free with his time of 24.61. In addition, he has tied the team's 13-14 100 Fly record of 1:00.4. Danny and Whitney are joined in setting records by Anamaria Baralt, who broke the 11-12 Girls 50 Back record with a time of 32.89.

MORRIS DANCING was one of the many performing activities that went on nonstop from 1 to 8 p.m. last Sunday at the International Fair on campus. Some 2,000 people attended this year's event which is an undertaking of members of the multi-national International Center at Princeton and was held in Dillon Gym to accommodate the crowd. Morris dancing is described as an English dance of spring, but it didn't help the weather the first part of the week.

'Monetary Action' by School Board Induces Retirement of One Principal

Eugene Biringer, principal of Riverside School, is retiring at the end of this school year and George Petrillo will succeed him as Riverside principal. Mr. Petrillo is now principal of Littlebrook School, which will be closed as a public school in June.

The moves resulted from what school board president Ann McGoldrick calls "monetary action" on the part of the board to encourage one of the district's four elementary school principals — it didn't matter which one — to leave the system. Mr. Biringer will receive $20,000 in cash plus $7,000 over a period of time, probably 18 months. He can use that money to buy back into the school system's insurance plans, Mrs. McGoldrick said.

The whole package, points out Superintendent Paul Houston, is much less than one year's salary for a school principal. The district not only saves that full year's salary, it also saves the next year's salary raise. Principals in Princeton are paid about $43,000.

"The taxpayers benefit and so does Gene Biringer and nobody goes away a loser," Dr. Houston remarked.

The school board began by extending the offer to the junior elementary principal in terms of seniority, then moving up to the next-junior and so on.

Mr. Petrillo is the junior and he apparently turned down the board's offer. Norma Gumbiner, principal of Community Park, and Lloyd Taylor, former Littlebrook principal and now Director of Instruction, also refused the offer. Mr. Biringer is the fourth and most senior of the principals, and he accepted. With 30 years' service, he is eligible to retire shortly in any case.

Dr. Houston said the board wanted to make sure it could keep John Sakala, Princeton High School principal and lowest on the seniority ladder of all the district's principals. In the game of musical chairs, the closing of Littlebrook leaves one more principal than there are schools and, theoretically, Mr. Sakala would be the one to be bumped.

"We were trying not to do that," Dr. Houston says, "and we were very successful."

In another, similar policy, the board is giving $1,000 to teachers who announce by April 15 that they are planning to leave the system. It is illegal to offer money to induce retirement, and this $1,000 applies

Citizens' Committee Formed to Fight Collins' Proposals for Square

When Planning Board members settle in this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. (Valley Road Building) to hear Collins' plans for expanding the Nassau Inn, they will be confronted with a group of citizen opponents, many of whom have signed petitions against the proposals.

"The protesters are too late," observed Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week.

Mayor Cawley, who sits on the Planning Board, reminded citizens that Collins already has preliminary site plan approval from the Planning Board.

"The plan establishes the general location and size of the buildings, so some issues are already decided," the mayor explained. "So long as Collins conforms to what's already approved in a preliminary way, they're in. The protesters are too late."

On Thursday, May 5, Borough Council is scheduled to act on the municipality's agreements with Collins. These concern the lease of Borough-owned land for the Chambers Street garage; air rights over Palmer Square East for construction of the bridge connecting old and new Nassau Inn buildings and a pledge about ride-sharing.

The chief group of protesters calls itself The Princeton Area Committee to Save Palmer Square, and committee organizer Polly Fairman said the group added "Area" to its title because several people signing its petition are from surrounding communities, such as Rocky Hill.

The group first met at the home of Mrs. Janet Cottier. Key members are Susan Morey, Susan McCabe, Kay Strong, Gordon Waldron, Ashley Montague and Harriet McLaughlin.

"Our basic concern is that Collins is removing the free space we all like," Mrs. Fairman said. "We are entirely opposed to the bridge. We feel the addition to the Nassau Inn on the east, crowds the whole area and isn't good-looking."

She added that members had polled shop-keepers who are tenants of the Square and found them "very upset" about the plans. In addition, she said, she had talked with shoppers in the Davidson's area and found a consensus of opposition.
